FIND MILK HERE BEST IN LAND

Greater Boston has the best milk supply in the United States—probably in the world.

This is the opinion of Dr. B. H. Smith, head of a federal investigating commission which has finished a secret examination of Boston milk at the federal laboratory in this city.

Dr. Smith and his assistants have their opinion as a comparison with the milk supplies of Chicago, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Providence, Springfield and other cities where United States inspections have been made under authority of the pure food law.

The supplies of Providence and Spring field compare favorably with that of Boston, according to the experts, because they receive much of their milk from the same source as Boston does. But cities in other parts of the country suffer by comparison. Inspection is very rigid in Boston, they say, compared with other cities.

Dr. Smith, who is now having bacteriological examinations made of samples taken in Providence, where 25,000 quarts are received daily, and who examined those taken in the investigation of the milk supply of Greater Boston, said:

Inspectors Boarded Trains.

"While I do not think it would be advisable for me to make specific comparisons of the results in each city, I will say that the milk supply of Greater Boston was found to be very good. This city, we believe, has the best milk supply in the country. Other cities in New England were also found to have good supplies. I believe the reason for this is the right milk inspection made by the local authorities. Such right inspection is not made in some parts of the country.

"No intimation that the inspections were to be made was given by the governmental officials. The inspectors boarded trains carrying milk to the various cities and took samples. The positions of subjects whose milk was found below the standard will be prosecuted in the Federal courts. Very few of the men who ship milk in this city were found to be violating the law.

"The national standard requires that there be at least three and one-quarter per cent of fat and not more than eight and one-half per cent of solids not fat. The bacteriological standard is 500,000 per cubic centimeter.

"All samples of milk that was being shipped by points in New England were examined at my office. Reports will be sent to Washington. The Pure Food Commission may give out a detailed statement, but I have no authority to do so."

Took 1,000 Samples.

Dr. Smith said that the investigation into the milk supply of Boston covered a period of four weeks. Milk is shipped here from New York State, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Maine and Vermont. More than 1,000 samples of milk from these States were taken and examined here.

Inspector George H. Adams, attached to Dr. Smith's office covered the government experts. The investigators included Dr. George W. Stiles of Washington, bacteriologist chemist of the bureau of chemistry, Department of Agriculture; Dr. C. A. Mc Keene, Pittsburg; Dr. C. E. Holton, Springfield; M. T. Miller, Bedford; J. J. McMurray, Savannah, Ga.; H. H. Wagner, New York; F. B. Reynor, Boston, and Carleton Bates, Washington, assisted by Dr. Stiles.

Technical measurements of the samples were taken immediately after seizure, and the temperature recorded. The samples were then placed in test tubes, properly labelled, and carried to Boston for the bacteriological tests.

JEFFRIES' MOTHER CLOSE TO DEATH

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9.—The condition of Mrs. Rebecca Jeffries, mother of James J. Jeffries, became so low to-day that friends expressed the fear that she would die before her son could be found in Alaska, where efforts are being made to tell him of his parent's condition. Mrs. Jeffries is delirious, and keeps calling for her son.

TWO INJURED WHEN TROLLEY HITS WAGON

Sixteen-year-old Max Shor and Michael H. O'Brien, twenty-one years, were injured in a collision between their wagon and a trolley on Dorchester avenue to-day. They were hurled from the seat and were taken to the City Hospital. Shor lives at No. 87 Essex street, Malden, and O'Brien at No. 7 Lawrence place, Boston.

"Unfit to Print"

THAT is how Mr. R. T. Crane, a Chicago millionaire manufacturer, describes the result of an investigation he had made of Harvard student dissipation in Boston and Cambridge.

As much of the story as the postoffice authorities would permit of circulation he has made public and it will form an amazing feature of to-morrow's Sunday AMERICAN.

The story will stir student life from the Atlantic to the Pacific, as well as the police authorities of Boston, Cambridge and other cities where colleges are located.

Every man and woman in New England interested in education should read this startling exposition as reported by a prominent, reliable man, who has spent much time and money in investigating college conditions.

It will be found in full as Mr. Crane prepared it in to-morrow's Sunday AMERICAN.

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Sept. 9.—Patsy Donovan's Red Sox were a crest fallen bunch of ball players when they went out to do battle with the champion Athletics to-day. The Boston team has dropped seven straight games, three to the Yankees and four to the Mackmen, and, with some of its leading players out of the lineup the chances of finishing in the first division look rather dubious.

Manager Donovan is disgusted with the showing of his team during the past week, and from now on intend to do a lot of experimenting in an effort to develop men who will be able to win games for Boston in 1912.

The Red Sox leave here to-night for Washington where they will open a series with the Senators on Monday.

CONTROLLER BAY IS NOT BEST HARBOR

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 9.—Secretary of the Interior Walter L. Fisher, at a dinner given here in his honor, declared Controller Bay to be neither the only nor the best harbor for the output of the Bering River coal fields, pronounced the extent and character of those fields "grossly exaggerated," and announced his policy to be the opening and development of the fields, but not under unrestricted private ownership. "The plan of leasing the coal lands," Mr. Fisher said, "deserves consideration because it has the approval of the President."

MANCHESTER CITY SOLICITOR IS DEAD

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 9.—John T. Nixon, city solicitor, is dead at the Elliot Hospital of nervous prostration, where he had been under treatment for several days. He first showed symptoms of this ailment three months ago. Mr. Nixon was born in Pembroke in 1870.

JUDGE UTLEY BUYS AUTO AT WORCESTER

TEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL ABDUCTED

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Declaring that she had been lured from Winsted, Ct., to this city, a ten-year-old girl who said she was Mabel Bryant of Montpelier, Vt., was taken from a hotel to the East Twenty second street station to-day with a man who said he was Benjamin W. Boulton, twenty-eight years old. The child, when she appeared at the station carried in her arms a two-foot doll, a toy saxophone and a miniature carpet sweeper that she said had been given her by her alleged abductor. Her face was tear-stained and she broke down while telling Lieutenant Adams her story since her arrival in this city Thursday. Boulton was held over by police on a charge of abduction.

A man who described himself as William H. Lake of Brooklyn, appeared at the station with the man and child and told the police that he had been awakened while asleep in a room adjoining that of Boulton in the hotel by the cries of a child. He said he ran to the street and found Policeman Matter, who accompanied Lake back to the hotel. Boulton and the girl were brought to the station.

The girl, with her doll clutched against her, said that she left her home in Montpelier—when, she failed to say—with a captain of the Salvation Army at that place and went to Winsted without informing her parents of her departure.

The girl told Lieutenant Adams that Boulton accompanied them to Winsted, and then proposed that she come to New York to see the sights. She consented, she said, and after a spell of crying the little girl told the police she came to this city with Boulton and that he bought her the toys which she carried in her arms.

SIX INDICTMENTS IN DEATH CASES

The Middlesex Grand Jury to-day reported fifty-three true bills, including three first degree murder, one second degree murder, two manslaughter and one attempt to murder indictments. Bliss W. Derrah of Cambridge was indicted for the murder of his wife at Bedford, August 15. Derrah is still at large. Peter Dougherty, Natick, indicted for the murder of Spiro Stoyl on July 4. Frank J. Blakeney is indicted for murdering Mrs. Frances Wilkinson at Somerville on July 24. Francis A. Winslow of Boston is charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Annie Cohen of Framingham on August 14 by an automobile. Howard T. Viles of Arlington is indicted for manslaughter in causing the death of Leo Smith at Watertown on August 19 by an automobile.

The amazing result of the Sunday AMERICAN'S poll of Maine voters on the prohibition question will be printed exclusively in to-morrow's Sunday AMERICAN.

BARBECUE OFF; MEET INDOORS

The big Democratic barbecue and ratification scheduled to take place this afternoon at Cale-Jordan Grove in West Roxbury was postponed, so far as the eating act the eating is concerned, because of the bad weather, until September 25. But the oratory, a choice brand of which had been prepared, is tapped at 4:30 p. m. in the historic and weather-proof structure of Faneuil Hall.

The rain was a big disappointment not only to the Democrats, but to the chef of the occasion, Louis Ardoni, the barbecue expert. He had been roasting since yesterday two steers that weighed 1,100 pounds, with a couple of pigs and a quintette of sheep on the side.

These were to be carved into sandwiches to-day made from 2,000 loaves of bread. When the weather made the eating impossible the question of what to do with this great quantity of perfectly good food came up, and it was Mayor Fitzgerald who remarked:

Feast for the Poor.

"Why not distribute it evenly among Boston charitable institutions?"

"Good idea," remarked Joe Maynard, chairman of the City Committee.

Teams were procured and a committee was set to work to distribute the barbecued meat and fixin's.

But the rain could not quench the flaming eloquence of the list of speakers, and good old Faneuil Hall was procured for this. The speakers include:

Governor Foss.

Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio.

Mayor Fitzgerald.

Congressman James M. Curley.

Congressman William Murray.

Congressman John A. Thayer.

David I. Walsh of Fitchburg, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor.

Among "those present" but not on the speaking list are such lights as Frank J. Donahue, candidate for Secretary of State; Augustus L. Thorndike, candidate for treasurer and receiver-general; Charles H. Strecker, candidate for auditor; George W. Anderson and Joseph J. Leonard, candidate for attorney-general; John F. McDonald, chairman of the Democratic State Committee and others.

Meet Governor Harmon.

One understands, of course, that the gentlemen named as candidates for certain offices are candidates for the Democratic nomination for those offices.

Governor Harmon of Ohio arrived in Boston at last night. He was met by a reception committee of leading Democrats. He is the guest of Mayor Fitzgerald at lunch to-day.

SHERMAN CALLS ON JOHN D. ARCHBOLD

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Vice-President James S. Sherman arrived in Tarrytown on express train stopping to let him off. "I don't know but I'll walk out and show myself," laughed the Vice-President. Then an auto came up with John D. Archbold, the president of the Standard Oil Company. "Hello, Mr. Vice-President," shouted Mr. Archbold as he grabbed Mr. Sherman's hand. "Get right in." Mr. Sherman got in and the car whizzed away. Its destination was the Knollwood Country Club. Mr. Sherman said his business was of a private nature.

ZEPPELIN BALLOON HEADS FOR BERLIN

GOTHA, (by wireless), Sept. 8.—The Zeppelin dirigible balloon Schwaben sailed from this city with six passengers at 6:15 this morning, on the final stage of the trip from Baden-Baden to Berlin. The scheduled route of 300 miles was practically on the bird flies, with a slight deflection to pass over Leipzig. The distance of the entire flight is 350 miles.

The New Mrs. John Jacob Astor

Miss Madeleine Force, who became bride of multi-millionaire at Newport to-day.

COL. ASTOR WEDS AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, Sept. 9.—Colonel John Jacob Astor, one of the richest men in the world, was married to-day to Miss Madeleine Talmage Force of New York, in the drawing room of "Beechwood," his summer home here, after a vain search to find a clergyman who would unite him and his bride before an altar and with all the church panoply.

It is understood there were two clergymen present to see that the nuptial knot was tied hard and fast. One is said to have been Rev. Edwin S. Straight of Providence. The other is reported as being Rev. Joseph Cooper of Newport.

Rev. Mr. Cooper is a Methodist. Colonel Astor is an Episcopalian. But he could not get any clergyman of his own denomination to perform the ceremony. In fact many of them denounced him from the pulpit, notably the Rev. Dr. Richmond of Philadelphia, for marrying a girl in her teens after being divorced from his first wife.

Denial by Rev. Joseph Lambert.

It was reported that one of the clergymen present was Rev. Joseph Lambert, pastor of the Elmwood Temple Congregational Church. When asked after the ceremony if this is true Rev. Mr. Lambert said:

"I was not present. I did not, could not and would not perform the ceremony. I consider it as a disgraceful proceeding and I have already put myself on record in expressing that view."

There have been some unusual society weddings in Newport. But never one like this. A man whose wealth is estimated to be at least $150,000,000, and who stands at the head of the New York 400, after searching Rhode Island for a clergyman who would consent to perform the service with the least possible publicity and fee, is united to the girl of his choice in the most private manner in his own home with only the bride's parents and sister present with the exception of Miss Roberta Willard. Society was not asked. Everything possible was done to have the wedding as private as possible.

License is Recorded.

Colonel Astor obtained a marriage license several days ago. That he did not do so was rumored but the report was not definitely known to be true until the document was officially recorded at City Hall shortly before the wedding. William P. Sheffield applied for the license and Clerk Fullerton said that the delay in recording the license was to obtain absolute legal proof of Colonel Astor's divorce.

It became known here that the wedding would take place to-day when the AMERICAN arrived last evening. Up to that time the fact that the clergymen outside of society had been wondering who would perform the ceremony. It was universally known that Colonel Astor was engaged in an arduous search for a clergyman. The AMERICAN announced that through Attorney Richard B. Comstock of Providence, one of Rhode Island's leading lawyers, a minister had been engaged in that city.

It had been expected that one of the officiating clergymen would be the Rev. Edwin S. Straight of Providence. He stopped work as a carpenter at Hampden Meadows at noon yesterday to go to Providence City Hall and formally register as a clergyman in that city. This was required under the Rhode Island law. The last pastorate held by the Rev. Mr. Straight was at Warren.

When he moved to East Providence he registered as he could properly do anywhere, if he wished, but when he settled in Providence a year ago he evidently intended to stick to the clergymen's trade and not to labor longer in the pulpit. At all events he did not register as a clergyman there until 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

When he had again qualified himself to perform marriages he said quietly:

"I am going to Newport in the morning and I shall be ready to marry Colonel Astor, if he has a license."

Colonel Astor already had that permit for the wedding, whether or not the Rev. Mr. Straight had been informed about his attending to that necessary preliminary. It has been reported that Colonel Astor was willing to pay $1,000 as a marriage fee to any clergyman who would officiate for him and Miss Force.

When the Rev.

FIRE IN WEST END TENEMENT

With a fire blazing in the front room of their apartments on the first floor of the four and a half story brick tenement house at No. 42 Grove street, West End, to-day, eight persons, including three children, slept in adjoining rooms unaware of their danger until awakened by firemen smashing in the door.

The blaze started in some unknown manner in a couch and spread to the curtains and walls of the room. A man passing the house saw the lace curtains in flames and sounded an alarm. The first floor was occupied by Thomas Dowd, his wife, Mary, and their three children, Margaret, 8; Thomas, 5, and Mary, 10 months.

Three women friends of Mrs. Dowd were asleep near the front room. They were awakened by the noise made by the firemen and quickly aroused the Dowds. Everybody in the flat rushed to the rear of the house, where they remained until the fire had been extinguished by the firemen.

Eight families lived in the house. The damage was less than $100.

FRANCE GIVEN GERMAN REPLY

PARIS, Sept. 9.—The text of Germany's reply to France's proposal, offered with a view to settling the Moroccan dispute, reached the French Ambassador at Berlin, M. Cambon, last evening.

The draft of the German counter proposals was received after the interview between the French Ambassador and the German Foreign Minister, Herr von Kiderlen-Waechter, had Thursday, and the text is not expected to reach the French Foreign Office until to-morrow. No immediate development in the situation, therefore, is likely.

No reliable information is available in Paris concerning the details of Germany's reply, but the general impression here is that much further negotiations will be necessary before an agreement on the Moroccan question is reached.

BEATTIE IS GRANTED 90 DAYS' STAY; HIS FRIENDS GIVE UP HOPE

CHESTERFIELD COUNTY COURT-HOUSE, Va., Sept. 9.—His iron nerve unbroken by the verdict of guilty returned against him last evening, and his subsequent sentence to die in the electric chair on November 24, Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., slayer of his young wife, Louise Owen Beattie, today declared that he still had hope.

"It is not over yet," he asserted. Nevertheless, even the closest friends of young Beattie and his family declare the young man has scarcely the slightest ground for hope. He has been granted a ninety days' stay of execution, but his lawyers have no confidence that the fight for a new trial will be successful.

These is only one sure way out for him, his friends say, and that is by sending his wife life. Sheriff Gill and his deputies watch him constantly to frustrate, if they can, any attempt he may make to cheat the law.

He himself has declared that he would never go to the chair, and he has boasted openly that there were many ways by which he could cheat the law.

To Appeal for New Trial.

Beattie was sentenced to be electrocuted on November 24 next in the State penitentiary, Oregon Hill, Richmond. His counsel formally served notice of an appeal and Judge Watson granted a stay of ninety days. The appeal will be argued before the Supreme Court on November 1. But the Virginia higher court stands for no quibbling over infinitesimal errors of procedure and the State's lawyers feel fairly firmly believe that Beattie will expiate his crime.

Few criminals of Henry Beattie's type are shown the remarkable self possession and mastery of feeling that he has shown. His father's heart and spirit are broken, his two brothers are crushed under the shame of the spoiled boy of the family being condemned to the death of a felon, his sisters' social life has blasted and the Beattie name has become a byword of the streets of Richmond, yet Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., condemned for the murder of his wife, has not yet uttered a cry of fear or of agony of soul.

Beattie will be taken back in a few days to the Henrico County jail, where he was confined while waiting for his trial. He will be closely watched every moment of the time. One of the points upon which the defense will base its appeal is that the jury failed to indicate the degree of murder of which Beattie was guilty when it returned its verdict. The attorneys for Beattie will contend that under the precedents of State jurisprudence a verdict of just "guilty," such as the jury returned before it was sent back, must be interpreted as murder in the second degree. They will claim that this irregularity entitles Beattie to another hearing.

Father to Spend Fortune.

Henry Clay Beattie, Sr., the wealthy father of the young prisoner, declared today that he would spend every dollar to save his son from the electric chair. The older Beattie was prostrated at the verdict and the sentence of death which quickly followed.

The twelve Virginia farmers who held Beattie's fate in their hands took only fifty-seven minutes to find him guilty of murder in the first degree. They were so eager to make known their judgment that, when asked for it, all twelve "Guilty—Guilty—Guilty."

The expressions of the faces, half filled with awe by what they had done, half filled with pity for him, made no impression whatever upon the strange defendant. Nor did the solemn gaze of 500 spectators, nor the shouts of "Guilty" on the lawn outside, nor the clicking of a dozen telegraph instruments almost at his ear, which were sending out to the whole country the word of his conviction.

He stood motionless, with his hands at his sides, his shoulders squared, his head thrown back. His eyes directed straight forward. Not a tremor, not a blink, betrayed fear or regret. He was magnificent in his defiance of death.

A few minutes after, when Judge Watson, with a tremor in his voice, solemnly sentenced him to be put to death in the electric chair on Friday, November 24, the prisoner stood quite as motionless and at the conclusion of the pronouncement nodded, and bowed as if to say "Yes, quite so."

A buzz of speculation sounded. Queer stories were whispered about. The elder Beattie held a $4,000 mortgage against one of the jurors, some said. Others declared that from intangible sources had come a report that the first ballot was nine for conviction and three for acquittal. Still others vowed they knew two jurors who would hold out forever for a verdict of not guilty.

Lamps Light Tragedy.

It began to grow dark. Sheriff Gill moved about slowly and lighted the four little oil lamps, backed by tin reflectors, which provide all the illumination this place has. They flickered in the soft southern breeze and cast dancing shadows on the whitewashed ceiling.

After half an hour of inaction young Beattie went out with his lawyers, Harry M. Smith, Jr., and Hill Carter, to the jail to smoke his inevitable cigarette.

The outside crowd edged away from him as he passed and did not follow on the short journey as usual.

In the occasional period of silence, in the courtroom, no sound could be heard from the jurors directly above, not even a footstep nor a loud voice. It began to be apparent that whatever the verdict would be there was no wrangling over it.

At 6:26 the clatter of feet on the stairway and a sudden bustle at he door announced that the jurors were coming in. A hurry call was sent out for Beattie and he stepped briskly from the outside entrance exhaling a cloud of cigarette smoke.

Jurors File In Silently.

There was a moment of silence as the jurors took seats. The telegraph instruments, which had been run right into the court room, ceased their clatter. There was only the noise of a katydid in the old trees.

The judge asked the foreman of the jury, S. W. Farley, if a verdict had been reached. Then came the ominous formula: "Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., stand up." The prisoner took you on the jurors; jurors, look you on the prisoner. Gentlemen, have you find you, guilty or not guilty?"

Young Beattie remained standing. His father, who sat beside him, placed an arm about his waist. Sitting in Coolidge at Gray Cliff, Newton Centre, to Samuel Sprague Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace H Stevens of Beacon street, Brookline.

The ceremony took place at 1 this after noon at the Coolidge home and was followed by a reception. The Rev. Edward Q. Sullivan of Newton Centre officiated.

The pretty bride, who wore the conventional white satin wedding gown, had no maid of honor but had chosen four of her best girl friends for her bridesmaids. They were Miss Josephine Stevens, Miss Margaret Curtiss and Miss Eleanor Bradley of Brookline and Miss Alice Tiffany of New Bedford. They were gowned alike in white net, with which they wore large picture hats of pale blue.

Horace S. Stevens was his brother's best man and the ushers were Edward Stevens of Brookline, William H. Coolidge, Jr., the bride's brother, Thompson Sampson of Boston, and F. W. Barker, Jr., of Syracuse.

After an extended honeymoon the young couple will go to Holden, N. Va., where they are to make their home.

COUNTESS WILL GIVE UNIVERSITY

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The Countess Ankle Leary is to found a great university on the highest point of Staten Island in memory of Christopher Columbus and she is to be assisted in her ambitious project by Hetty Green.

On the eighty or more acres near Castleton which are to be donated by the Pepsi Countess there will also be erected a gigantic bronze statue of the discoverer. The movement is already under way, and the Countess and Mrs. Green are confident they will easily succeed in inducing their wealthy friends to contribute toward the statue, if not for the university.

In her home at No. 1032 Fifth avenue, the Countess detailed her plans. She is eighty-four years old. Her intellect and gifts to the present are many, but she confessed it was the first time she had consented to talk to a reporter.

"My university," she said to the reporter "I shall regard as the culmination of my lifetime of charitable work. It will be indeed the culmination of my whole life. I wish to have on the highest point of Staten Island first a gigantic bronze statue of Christopher Columbus, the discoverer of this country, who shall welcome the poor and oppressed of every nation who come to this country. Then I wish to have some other than poor and oppressed I want the university to be free to them in the fullest in this greatest of nations. The university shall teach them everything that is taught upon the face of the earth. It shall teach them the scientific as well as the music, and it shall give to them at last hand the history of the nation. It will collections before it is completely established, but it shall be established.

"I have had the representatives of the Pope about the project, and the Pope has given his blessing to them. He expects great things of me. It goes without saying that I have not disappointed him. I cannot leave the whole of my fortune to the university, because I am interested in many other big things, and while I am not a young woman I have to have some pieces. But—well, I do not wish to dwell upon this phase of the matter.

"Hetty Green is the oldest friend I have on earth, and she will follow me into everything, I understand, and to the extent that I may ask her."

The Countess told something of the origin of the work.

BEULAH BINFORD INSISTS BEATTIE WAS NOT GUILTY

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Beulah Binford is still loyal to Henry Clay Beattie, despite his conviction. She said to-day:

"It's awful. The jury guilty. They didn't prove a thing against him. They have sending him to death for nothing. I wish I could do something or say something that would change the case. I know he didn't murder his wife. I know I couldn't have done such a thing. He is a fine man and was always square and kind. He loved his wife, and I know she loved him.

"Even her own mother couldn't say that she was loud with him, and I know that Henry Clay wasn't loud with her. They had got the idea in their heads that he was guilty, and so they have convicted him.

"There wasn't anything against Henry Clay Beattie except what Virgil Beattie had to say. Oh, it is awful. Do you really think they'll kill him?"

The storm of objection that was raised over the report that Beulah Binford was to appear in vaudeville and was to pose for moving pictures has caused various vaudeville managers and leading picture promoters to announce with great emphasis that the girl will not be employed by them.

GIRL INDICTED FOR GEM THEFT

Miss Vera Darling, alias Bowling, nineteen, of Revere, was arraigned on August 17 in connection with the disappearance of a diamond ring from a Back Bay jewelry store, was indicted today by the Grand Jury. The ring which was presented to Judge Lawton in the Superior Criminal Court charges her with the larceny of a diamond ring valued at $1,050, from Bigelow, Kennard & Co. In a voice scarcely audible she pleaded not guilty.

It is alleged that the girl posed as Dorothy Forbes, former president of the Whereat Club, and daughter of J. Murray Forbes, of No. 107 Commonwealth avenue, and after inspecting a number of rings and negotiating with the clerk about her friendship for Eleonora Sears, purloined the ring.

She appeared in court dressed in a complete change of clothes, wearing low shoes, white stockings and a white hat hat without trimmings which added to the air of excellent figure to advantage. She did not seem worry, for confidence in herself as one days in the Charles street jail, but was apparently ill at ease.

Her counsel, Edward T. McGettrick, waived the reading of the indictment, and when Clerk Manning asked her what she had to say in regard to the charge, she said, "Not guilty."

Her arrest was made on August 17, when she was leaving the court house with her attorney after having furnished bail for her release from custody on another charge of larceny. In his opening address to the jury he briefly stated, Cressy & Low in order to send several pendants on approval to Mrs. Forbes. He stated that she was a daughter of Governor Foss. The jewelry was sent, found that two pendants, valued at $575, were missing from their stock. These were recovered from pawnbrokers on the strength of charge she was unable to secure $2,000 bail.

She was sent back to the Charles street jail this morning to await trial.

Cures Asthma

Thousands of Dollars Now Being Spent by a Buffalo Institution In Sending

FREE TREATMENT TO ASTHMA SUFFERERS

A New Home Cure That Anyone Can Use With Sure Results.

We have a New Method that Cures Asthma, and we want you to try it at our expense. No matter how severe your case is of long standing or recent development, whether it is present as occasional or chronic asthma, no matter in what climate you live, no matter what your age or occupation, this method is a practically certain cure right in your own home.

We especially want to send it to those apparently hopeless cases, where all forms of inhalers, sprays, douches, preparations, fumes, "patent smokes," etc., have failed. We want to show everyone at our own expense that the new method will end all difficult breathing, all wheezing, all those terrible paroxysms, at once and for all time.

We have now proven conclusively that Asthma is a poison—and leading physicians have been forced to agree with our conclusions. Asthma has been one of the most puzzling and stubborn diseases with which the medical profession has had to deal. The trouble has been that the usual treatment was directed toward relieving rather than curing.

Almost anyone can relieve you something to ease your immediate suffering, but our treatment is a positive cure and drives the poison out of the system for all time to come. Thoroughly eradicates it.

This is the wonderful part of our method. It leaves you not only free from the poison, but so strengthens and purifies the entire system that you are able to resist any future attack. You can put your faith in this method and know that you have at last found the relief you so long have sought.

Hay Fever, Bronchitis and all Diseases of the Air Passages naturally yield to this System of Treatment.

WRITE TODAY

No matter how many doctors have despaired of your case, no matter what trouble is recent or of long standing, or what other remedies you have tried, We want to send a FREE TRIAL of OUR METHOD to every Asthma, Bronchitis or Hay Fever sufferer in the land.

We want to show you that our method will really and positively cure you for all time.

This means better health, increased physical ability and longer life. Our free offer is too important to neglect a single day. Write now and begin your cure at once. Send no money. Simply mail coupon below. Do it today.

'L' WILL SPEND SIXTY MILLIONS

The Boston Elevated Railway Company plans to expend about $60,000,000 during the next three and a half years in developing the transit system of Boston, it is announced today. Power for the expanded service will be generated in one station that can supply an alternating current up to 50,000 kilowatts. Six transforming stations will be established at the new plant, which will require 142 miles of underground conduit.

The Elevated is now installing this new station in South Boston on the water front on land formerly occupied by the George Lawley & Sons Corporation, and comprises about twenty-four acres of land.

The plant consists of a steel and brick building containing 24 Babcock & Wilcox turbines with the necessary boilers and auxiliary equipment, and sufficient space for a third unit of the same size to be added in the future.

Enormous Generators.

The enormous size of these generators may be appreciated when it is recalled that the largest generator now in use by the Elevated are of 5,000 kilowatt power. In fact these 15,000 kilowatt generators will be the largest units in use up and down the entire country. Careful investigations and arrangement of the building and conduit system have been made so that they can be extended to provide for an ultimate capacity of 100,000 kilowatts.

A water tube feed line is being built which will connect the station with the city water can dock at low tide.

The station will include an extensive coal handling equipment, consisting of steam-operated hoist towers, a 300-foot gantry crane and conveying apparatus to discharge the coal from vessels and place it in storage or in the boiler room are also part of the equipment. An ash plant of large capacity for removing tons of ash will be installed.

The land is such that the plant will admit of a large development of this station with a large capacity, and when the construction of power stations large enough to provide for the needs of the city for many years to come, indeed power enough to furnish a large part of the needs of the whole city could be located on this property if the necessity arises for such tremendous amount of power. Present power conditions do not require stations in excess of 60,000 kilowatts.

142 Miles of Conduit.

The conduit line connecting the main power station with the various substations is made up of about 142 miles of duct, only about one-half of which will be utilized at present. The substations are located in Roslindale, Coolidge Corner, Brookline; Kendall square, Cambridge; Sullivan square and East Boston. Work on all these substations, except that on the Malden, is well advanced, and the electrical equipment is commencing to arrive. An existing substation at Egleston square will be enlarged with new apparatus which will increase its capacity from 9,000 kilowatts to 18,000 kilowatts.

The entire work of construction and installing the different apparatus and machinery is being done under the direction of Sumner Engineering Corporation. The architectural plans for the new station and the sub-stations were designed by Robert G. Pelton. The cost of the land and buildings of the land will be about $3,500,000—$2,000,000 for the power station will cost $2,250,000, the transmission system $675,000 and the substations $725,000.

The operation of this new alternating current system, in connection with the larger and more economical direct current system, will necessitate a number of some changes in method which will materially reduce the operating expenses, thus enabling the company to supply additional power as may be required in any section of the city in which it operates, at a much lower cost than would be possible under any other system.

WOMAN KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

Physician was driving car which crashed against a tree, resulting in the death of Mrs. Lillian Shoemaker.

His nerves in a state of almost complete collapse as a result of the death of Mrs. Lillian Shoemaker of North Attleboro in an auto crash early today, Dr. Newell C. Bullard is in a serious condition at the Emerson Hospital in Concord Hills.

Dr. Bullard was injured in the crash but his mental condition is much more serious than his physical hurt.

Mrs. Shoemaker was the wife of Dr. A. B. Shoemaker, one of the leading physicians of North Attleboro. Dr. Bullard was an intimate friend of the family and lined with the doctor and his wife last evening. After dinner Mrs. Shoemaker told the local several errands to do in Providence and asked Dr. Bullard to take her to that city in his automobile.

Machine Dashed Into Tree.

Dr. Shoemaker discovered that his engagements for the evening would not permit him to go. Dr. Bullard then volunteered to take Mrs. Shoemaker to Providence in his car.

Early on their return that the fatal accident happened. Dr. Bullard was driving his car at fast speed and when the rear wheels skidded on the tarred roadway on Red Rock Hill, a quarter of a mile below Allen avenue in the Boston and Providence turnpike.

Dr. Bullard attempted to control the machine, but the speed at which the car was going prevented him and the automobile swerved across the road and crashed against a huge willow tree, turning completely over and pinning Mrs. Shoemaker beneath the car.

Her neck was broken and she died instantly.

Doctor in Collapse.

Dr. Bullard was thrown out. Reminding his self of the duties he owed to the release the body of Mrs. Shoemaker. Finding this impossible and all but overcome by the shock of the death, he came by auto to the home of General Todd, almost two miles from the scene of the wreck.

Hardly had he brokenly told the news of the accident than Dr. Bullard collapsed. Dr. F. S. Ward was called and took Dr. Bullard to the Emerson Hospital.

Meantime Joseph Gaston, Gonyantonio in Pawtucket, was journeying home when he saw the wrecked automobile ahead on a short distance further along. He and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Codding of North Attleboro, and returned with them to the scene of the accident. Codding is united by the car while Codding hastened to the home and returned with Dr. Willis L. Hale and Patrolman Reed.

Their efforts to right the car and release the body were unavailing, but George and Henry Todd, Robert and Walter Partridge and Ufah Rheinhardt came along and lifted the auto. Dr. F. S. Hodges, medical examiner, viewed the body and said death was instantaneous.

LABOR'S PRAISE FOR FAIR NEWS REPORTS

Editor AMERICAN:

The splendidly fair news reports and words of commendation and encouragement to the efforts of the labor movement of Boston in the editorial columns of the Boston Daily Globe of Tuesday, September 5, in connection with Monday's parade, ought to be sincerely appreciated by every trade unionist who has the real interest of the movement at heart, and who must realize that no permanent progress can be hoped for except through the force of public opinion, shaped from the fair editorial expressions and news reports of the fair, independent newspapers as Boston is proud to boast of. I feel I ought to say this word of appreciation on behalf of the Boston 40,000 wage-earners within the jurisdiction of the Boston Central Labor Union.

WILLIAM H. CUTHBERT,
President Boston Central Labor Union.

ANDERSONS TO TAKE SERVANTS ABROAD

A complete redinue of servants will accompany Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson of Washington and Brookline to Belgium, where Mr. Anderson will begin his duties as United States Minister. They will sail on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. They will set up an elaborately appointed household, consisting entirely of American, and they will entertain lavishly. Barney Foy, their chauffeur, will be taken along.

BURGESS TO SWIM CHANNEL TWICE

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Thomas W. Burgess, who swam the English channel this week, announced to-day that he would make an attempt to swim the round trip of the channel for a purse of $25,000. This is the most ambitious swim ever planned, not alone on account of the distance—forty miles—but because of the strong, treacherous tides.

MAINE VOTES NEXT MONDAY

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 9.—In first which opens on the ballot the good and rural vote is going to mark its cross day after to-morrow is the thing that is puzzling both sides in the political campaign most. Trying to figure out how the farmers and townspeople will cast their ballots is the thing that is puzzling the experts election forecasters up in the air and is giving the pro and anti leaders plenty to keep them guessing.

Today is a big day in the campaigning and so will be to-morrow when the most unusual contest in the history of the State comes to a close so far as the actual campaigning is concerned. To-day there are hundreds of speakers on stump, platform and public conveyance, dispensing pictures of vice and the open saloon and calling on the voters to retain the prohibitory amendment, as the State constitution.

There are thousands of women and children at work, trying to save Maine, the first and longest dryness of the States, to the cause of prohibition.

This unusual activity has been seen in every side, in the cities, in the towns and in the country districts. These lost are demanding the close attention of the campaigners, for in the rural sections lies the immense quantity of free-standing for and against rum. There is no doubt where the "cities" will land on election day. They will vote "Yes" by large margins, according to the belief of all. It is in the towns and country whereon the surprises, if any, are to be found.

Predictions Plentiful.

For the saints, the active campaigning began on Monday, when the "drys" have had no speakers at work in the same place, day, perhaps, to the feeling that the voters will be influenced by a series of emotional appeal. The anti-drys have had a policy of simply sending out tons of literature in more effective. Friday finished their work by sending from the Maine non-partisan Local Self Government League headquarters, thousands of bulletins and pamphlets broadcast over the State.

The prohibitionists have not abated one whit in their efforts. They have been more keenly on the alert. Thunderers rallies are on from now until the end, to-morrow. The list of speakers includes something like 600 names and among Governor Hanson, Richmond Pearson Hobson, evangelist Billy Sunday, preaching cards, speaks at Poland to-day. To-morrow he is to be followed by Governor Foss, closing the big meeting in the Jefferson Theatre in Portland.

Predictions as to the result are plentiful. But these come chiefly from the leaders of the two sides, for the fair men who have experienced difficulty in trying to find out the rural vote, and it is for this reason mainly that few reliable forecasts have been made.

Farmers Doubtful.

Reports of the "yes" canvassers to the Self Government League headquarters here seem to indicate the country sections will show a decided majority for repeal. Secretary Fred G. Fassett, of the league, declared to-day that reports that have come in have convinced him the Prohibitory Party will be repealed by a big minimum majority, and that the canvassers have found a strong repeal sentiment in the towns and country places.

In Brussels City will set up an elaborately appointed household, consisting entirely of American, and they will entertain lavishly. Barney Foy, their chauffeur, will be taken along.

HARMON CHATS WITH GOVERNOR

The Governor of Ohio met the Governor of Massachusetts to-day and two statuary pieces of Democratic presidential timber stood side by side.

It was the first time that Governor Harmon of Ohio had visited the Massachusetts State House, though not his first meeting with Governor Foss. As the Ohio man walked into Foss' private office the bystanders found this out:

"Well, Governor, you are conducting your campaign with a grand style. We can't do it in Ohio."

Governor, rejoined Foss. "We know all about Harmon in Massachusetts."

Then the door closed. The two Governors chatted for about half an hour. When Harmon was asked what they talked about with a twinkle in his eye.

"The history of Massachusetts."

Governor Harmon, accompanied by John T. McDonald, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, went to City Hall and called upon the Mayor. Then it was time to attend the luncheon at the Boston City Club given by Governor Harmon and Governor Foss. The guests included Mayor Fitzgerald, David I. Walsh, Judge Joseph J. Corbett, Josiah Quincy, William A. Gaston, Charles Hamlin, Fred A. Mcleod, Sherman Whipple, John F. McDonald and Messrs. Barlow and Hosmer, secretaries of the governor of Massachusetts.

CIGARMAKERS SEND $400 TO SYRACUSE

Cigarmakers' Union 97 of this city forwarded a check for $400 to-day to Syracuse, N. Y., to assist striking cigarmakers of that city, who have been out ten weeks in resistance to reduction of wages. There are 100 men out in the Syracuse strike. The vote to contribute the $400 at last night's meeting of the local union was unanimous. Secretary-Treasurer William Kindel sent the check to-day, losing no time in carrying out the union's vote.

ARABIC MAKES QUICK PASSAGE

The White Star liner Arabic docked at Charlestown navy yard after a quick passage from Liverpool. Her actual time between Daunt's Rock and Boston Light was 6d. 22h. 19m. She brought 246 saloon, 265 second cabin and 371 steerage passengers, a total of 882. Among the saloon passengers were many prominent Bostonians returning from vacation tours abroad.

Colonel Samuel A. Johnson of Salem, sheriff of Essex county, and Mrs. Johnson returned from a visit to their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Nolan of Dublin. Mr. and Mrs. Nolan accompanied the Johnsons for a visit here of several weeks. With the party, also was the Rev. D. P. Mulcahy of Swords, Dublin county, Ireland. He is aged from a years old and has been in the priesthood several years, being the oldest priest in Ireland to hold of clerical service. His residence at Swords is the oldest Irish parish. He is uncle of Mrs. Johnson and grand-uncle of Mrs. Nolan. He will be a guest of the Johnsons in Salem for three weeks.

Mr. Nolan, who is a widely known Dublin publisher, asked when he arrived about the latest news of the Moroccan war cloud. When told that the cloud seemed to be lifting he exhibited much feeling.

"I'm glad of it. It's all right for you folks over here to read war scare news, but I have to pay my income tax and I don't want to support any war."

Mr. Nolan is a guest of Colonel and Mrs. Johnson in Dublin, the Kling and Queen streets, the royal line of Ireland, according to courtesy of Sir Anthony Weldon the Nolans and Johnsons attended all the royal receptions in Dublin.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Magrane of Boston returned from Kiel, where Mr. Magrane is a guest of the Kaiser, on the sonder races for the Emperor's international cup.

F. E. Smith, one of the staff at Claude-Grahame-White's aviation school at Hendon, came with three boxes of aeroplane parts.

Others returning included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lincoln Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Roberts F. Perkins, the former Harward footballer, and Mrs. Charles Hubbard Sutherland, dean of Boston University Medical School; Mrs. Edward L. Parker and Mrs. Charles W. Bartlett, Professor Harlan P. Anson, principal of Phillips Exeter Academy, and Rev. H. H. Becker, the Boston ornithologist.

DRIVER'S BACK BROKEN.

Theodore H. Wood, fifty, of No. 7 West Canton street, marked brake his spine to-day while driving a furniture wagon out of the basement of the stable at No. 101 West Dedham street, when he struck the stone arch over the driveway.

Her Figure Was Dainty

Her face was round, her hands were slim, her figure was dainty and trim; she was blithe and gay and full of fun, and the envy of the neighbors say, she was such a good sport. She changed her name to Mrs. Jones, but she didn't change her disposition, and that's the reason why she was so popular. Her husband was a big, hearty fellow with many friends. As he was leaving for work one morning he called to his wife and told her to meet him at the corner of Main and Elm streets at 6 o'clock that evening. He would be driving a big, red automobile, and would take her for a ride. She was delighted at the prospect, and when 6 o'clock came she was there. Her husband drove up in a big, red automobile, and she climbed in. He drove her to the nearest police station, and she was locked up for speeding. She was such a good sport that she laughed at the joke on herself. Her husband was a police officer.

SILK HOSIERY

A Miscellaneous Lot Less than 2000 Pairs

Original values 1.25, 1.50, 1.75 and 2.00 per pair.

Every pair in a great silk hosiery mill. Samples, odd lots and some in which there is a thread here and there that does not match exactly in size or possibly in color. Every size and every color is represented, including black—but not every size and quality in every color.

About three weeks ago Chandler & Co. bought many thousand pairs of silk hose from this maker, cleaning out all the boxed silk hose in the factory—they were advised on Friday all the samples had been returned by the road men and that all the hosiery in the factory that was slightly unsued, or what they term "slightly imperfect" from varying threads, had been assembled. There were less than two thousand pairs, and they could be bought at a ridiculous price.

They were purchased, and the entire lot, which comprises values from 1.25, 1.50, 1.75 and 2.00 has been marked 65c and 85c.

Price 65c and 85c

Also—Just received, another hundred dozen of Chandler & Co.'s Guaranteed Silk Lisle Black Hose.....3 pairs for 1.00

I WILL PAY $2,000.00

To the first person proving these letters are not absolutely genuine, I have deposited the $2,000.00 in the Merchants State Bank of Wichita, Kansas, for that purpose. I am the originator and only living man in the world practicing my strange and peculiar method of healing. I have thousands of patients in the United States—patients in every State in the Union and many foreign countries. Read their letters and form your own opinion.

PROF. SAMUELS
Scientist and Originator of Samuels' Systematic Treatment

LUNG TROUBLE.

Newton, Kas., March 12, 1910.

I feel it is my duty to tell you what wonderful good Prof. Samuels' treatment has done for me. I had suffered with lung trouble for eight years, and had 3 hemorrhages almost every day. I took the treatment faithfully for one year, and gave it a thorough trial, and have never had a hemorrhage since taking it. I began to gain after the first month, and am now in better health than for years. Any help or reference I can give to those wishing to know of this strange treatment I will gladly give.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. C. C. McDANIEL,
607½ Main Street.

INDIGESTION AND BLADDER TROUBLE.

Hot Springs, Ark., June 28, 1911.

Prof. H. Samuels, Wichita, Kas.

Dear Sir—I want to drop you a few lines to tell you that I feel perfectly well. I had the worst case of indigestion and chronic inflammation of the bladder, and the doctors told me I would never be my better. When I took how your treatments my weight was only 100 pounds, and I now weigh 130 lbs., and it is all due to your wonderful treatments through the mail.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) MRS. H. L. JENNINGS,
Hot Springs, Ark., P. O. Box 193.

DEAFNESS.

Somerville, Ala., July 19, 1911.

Prof. Samuels:

Dear Sir—Will write you about my case. She is getting about fine, she seems to hear as good as she ever did, but is still using the medicine for a couple more. How much longer do you think she will need to use the medicine? She takes all right now, but I don't know how she should still use the medicine alone and take it as you have been.

Yours respectfully,
W. H. SHUPE.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND EYE TROUBLE.

Ala., Mo.

Prof. H. Samuels:

Dear Sir—Send R. A. Reynolds of Ash place two or three symptom blanks with some of your advertising matter, as he wishes to get to the symptom blanks and send same to his son. As I have been taking the treatment some months at work and it has improved my eye greatly. As to seeing, I have to wear glasses and could not read fine print without them. Now I can read fairly well. My cough is much better, and I feel as if it seems I can hear a little better, as I was hard of hearing. As to the weight I have not noticed any change as yet. Will continue treatment regularly and report any changes. Send me some of the advertising matter with a few symptom blanks. I can distribute them to good advantage.

Yours truly,
(Signed) M. C. REYNOLDS.

PARALYSIS AND GENERAL TROUBLE.

Opelousas, La., June 21, 1910.

Prof. H. Samuels.

Dear Sir—I have received and began taking your treatment on the 6th inst., and I am proud to say that I received beneficial results in twenty-four hours after the first dose. My eyesight has improved a hundred per cent; my pains in all my limbs have been greatly relieved. In fact, all my ills are relieved; I feel altogether worth living.

I desire to thank you heartily for the relief you have procured me, and hope and trust it will continue for the better, until a permanent cure is effected.

You will find enclosed names of persons afflicted with chronic diseases. I have also given your name and address to other parties whom you must have heard from by this time.

Thanking you again, I am,

Respectfully,
(Signed) D. F. DUPRE.
Opelousas, La., R. No. 2.

STOMACH.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 22, 1910.

Prof. Samuels.

Dear Sir—Have now been using last month's treatment. I am feeling fine, so I do not think I need use any more medicine just now. My stomach trouble, as well as other ailments, are all gone, so I am at present enjoying the best of health.

My heartiest thanks to you for your wonderful medicine.

Respectfully yours,
(Signed) CHARLES ATKINSON,
No. 5414 5th Ave., Chicago, Ill.

KIDNEYS.

Chelan, Wash., Sept. 19th, 1910.

Prof. Samuels:

Dear Sir—I have been away from home for some time, and as the letter was not sent to me I did not receive it until a short time ago. I am very sorry, and had I been at home you would have heard from me sooner.

I am entirely cured, and do not need any more of your treatments.

Thanking you very much for your kindness, and wishing you success before me, I am,

Yours very truly,
MRS. D. L. CLEMER.

NOW ABLE TO DO A DAY'S WORK.

Pollock, La., May 21, 1910.

Prof. Samuels,

Dear Sir—Am thanking you for your kindly interest in my welfare, would say that I have grown so much better under your treatment that I am able to do a good day's work, and will wait a month or two to see how it will last.

Respectfully yours,
(Signed) D. N. BRAKEFIELD.
Pollock, La.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

Shamrock, Tex., May 25, 1910.

Prof. H. Samuels.

Enclosed please find money for a month's treatment, which I think will be all I will need, as I am as well as I ever was and in one more month I think I will be cured.

I am, truly yours,
(Signed) MRS. T. H. SPOON.

BLIND AND DEAF.

Llano, Tex., May 18, 1910.

Dear Sir—I think my husband, Mr. Kuffman, is improving fast, as he can now see out of his blind eye, and his hearing is improved. You will find inclosed money for another month's treatment. You will please send it in my name, Mrs. H. P. Kuffman, and oblige.
(Signed) MRS. H. P. KUFFMAN.

LIVER AND STOMACH TROUBLE.

Monett, Mo., Oct. 31st, 1910.

Prof. H. Samuels.

Dear Friend—Your weeks ago yesterday I received your medicine and commenced treatment by directions, and have found myself benefited very much, and I have one-half bottle yet. I will not need any more at present, as I will wait a few days and see if it is going to hold my health good. If not, will send for more, as it is surely the finest treatment that the human family has ever taken.

Respectfully yours,
(Signed) JOHN S. WITHERS.

KIDNEY AND STOMACH TROUBLE.

Bruce, S. D., Oct. 23rd, 1910.

Prof. Samuels.

Dear sir—I received your letter quite a few days ago, but have put off answering it.

I certainly am very thankful to you for the good and great benefit I have derived from the use of the treatment prescribed by you. What I suffered before I commenced to take your treatment is beyond me to describe. The comfort I have now in living and being able to go about and enjoy my food and drink as others do, is simply wonderful. I extend you my sincere thanks.

Very gratefully and respectfully,
MRS. WILLIAM HOFMAN,
Bruce, S. Dak., R. No. 2.

CATARRH AND WEAKNESS.

Sandy Hill, N. Y., Oct. 27th, 1910.

Prof. H. Samuels.

Dear Sir—It is a great pleasure for me to let you know that my eyes are doing fine. Your treatment is doing my eyes more good in two weeks than all the treatment that I have used in three years.

I have also better hearing yet, and I will send for another treatment before this is all gone. I think that a week I can throw my glasses away, for my eyes feel fine.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) JOSEPH BEAULAC.
22 Lenoire St.

GREATLY BENEFITED.

Monett, Mo., July 28, 1910.

Prof. Samuels.

Dear Sir—I received your month's treatment and I certainly am very thankful to you for good it has done me in this short time. I have just taken it in my own different ways. I have gained strength and can do my work without resting as much, I can eat almost anything I want. I have only used half of one bottle yet. I think I will be well by the time I use the rest of the medicine.

MRS. LOUISA COSTLEY,
Monett, Mo., R. F. D. 6, Box 114.

EYE AND GENERAL TROUBLE.

Wilmerie, Pla., Sept. 15, 1910.

Prof. H. Samuels.

I can't fully explain to you how much good your treatment has done me.

I am doing well now, and not to a position to take treatment longer, although I expected to take the treatment three months if I could have done it. I am willing to tell anyone that if they take the treatment according to directions it will do all you claim for it.

RUPPY GRANT.

GAINS RAPIDLY.

Accomville, Ill., Oct. 19, 1910.

Prof. H. Samuels.

Dear Sir—Received treatment all O. K. Am still gaining in weight, have passed 40 pounds since taking your treatment and feel better than I have for over two years.

Sincerely yours,
MRS. R. M. FULLER.

ASTHMA.

Augusta, Kas., Nov. 7, 1909.

Prof. Samuels.

Dear Sir—Some time last December we brought to you our son Dandridge Lyon, who was then and had been for some time suffering from a severe case of Asthma. After your first treatment he had one slight attack. Your medicine soon relieved him, and since then he has never been troubled with asthma.

He looks much better, and you feels that he is entirely cured. It was the best investment that I ever made.

Yours very truly,
W. W. LYON & WIFE.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Henna, Mich., Sept. 25th, 1910.

Prof. H. Samuels.

Dear Sir—I wish to write you these few lines today for the express purpose of thanking you for your very successful treatment of my wife's sickness, namely, Bright's Disease. We consider her entirely cured of this dread malady, and can say to any person or persons desiring to benefit themselves in anything of this kind, they would do well to consult you; and we are ready and willing at any time to testify to your ability to do what you claim to do.

So, with heartfelt thanks for the great good you have done, I will close, by writing myself,

Your obedient servant,
(Signed) P. F. BRADLEY.
Henna, Mich., R. No. 4, Box 63.

TUBERCULOSIS AND TEREGIUM.

Maryville, Mo., June 10, 1910.

Dear Sir—Find enclosed money for which please send me another month's treatment of your wonderful remedy, for I certainly think it is God-send to suffering humanity. I have gained fifteen pounds in two months, and feel better than I have for two years. The terrigium on my eye is disappearing and I can read large print, such as the headlines of a paper, after being practically blind in it for five years.

Yours truly,
L. M. HELMS.
Maryville, Mo., Route 3, Box 44.

RHEUMATISM AND PARALYSIS.

Cuzco, N. Y., Aug. 9, 1910.

Prof. H. Samuels.

Dear Sir—I am improving under your treatment right along. My rheumatism is leaving me. I think another month's treatment will cure the rheumatism; and I also think it is helping my paralysis. It is the only medicine that I ever took that I kept improving right along.

I sleep good nights now. My shoulder and arm does not ache nights now and my knee is about well. I can be on my feet all day now, and I am getting over my nervousness. You will see by my writing I am not so nervous.

I think you will have more patients around here in a little while. I am recommending you to every one around here. There is a man here that has had the trembling and diabetes that I think will try it when he sees how I get along; and there is quite a number around here that will try it after awhile. I will do all I can for you. I am going to send for more before I get out, as I want to try it longer.

(Signed) FRED A. BAKER.

CATARRH.

Alger, Mich., July 9, 1911.

Prof. Samuels.

Dear Sirs—Will say I am about well of my case of catarrh. I don't think I will need more medicine. It is remarkable how it worked upon the system.

Wishing you best of success, I remain,

Your ever-ready assistant,
Box 17. (Signed) HENRY B. CUSICK.

BRONCHIAL TROUBLE.

Cartwright Wharf, Va., Sept. 6, 1910.

Prof. Samuels.

Dear Prof.—I will write to let you know that I received my medicine last Tuesday. I was so glad to get it, for I was feeling so badly, but am glad to say now I am feeling so much better and hope I will not have to wait so long next time.

I feel that I am on the road to health. You have done me so much good I want you to help a friend of mine in Suffolk. She asked me to send you her address. Some of her people around here say it is a shame that we don't use any testimonials from Virginia, so if you wish you can send one from me, and I can say that one month's treatment from you has done me more good than $200 worth of medicine from the big doctors. I cannot praise your medicine too highly, for I do not see it in the light in this world.

Hoping you will send this both some of your testimonials, and you can send for mine if you like.

Your humble servant,
MRS. J. W. HARRIS.

HEALTH RESTORED.

Pine Bluff, Ark., July 6, 1910.

Prof. H. Samuels.

Dear Sir—I guess you will think I have forgotten you, but that will never be. I will never forget the man who saved my life.

Well, I suppose you will be glad when you hear how I am keeping. I am feeling pretty good. In fact, out of the time I have been able to feel myself and now I can shoulder one hundred and sixty pounds. I think that is pretty good, and I think as much as I ever did.

Please me informed to see me look as well. The reason I do is your treatment. The blood is all healed up, though we have had some bad cases here. Some of the mild cases bloated me three shot cases and those are no more. We have been free of disease here all around us, but it has not been very near us.

Goodbye for this time, from

JACOB BITTMILLER,
Pine Bluff, Ark., Canada.

EYE TROUBLE.

Walnola, Okla.

Prof. Samuels.

Dear Sir—I am glad to tell you that my eyes are in good condition now, and as I do not need your medicine any more, consider it not need to send it. Hoping you may help others, as you have helped me, I remain,

LUCIE TILMER.

GENERAL BREAKDOWN.

May 29, 1910.

Prof. Samuels.

Kind Friend—Now I enclose you your remedies I have been feeling a decided improvement in my health. The change in my health physically is entirely different to what I have ever had in my life with all other medicines I have taken. So far it seems to strengthen me all through my system. My eyesight is better. The carbone veins on my right side have almost disappeared entirely, and I do not have that desire to urinate two or three times a night. I am beginning to sleep as sound as an infant, and I am beginning to weight also. I have spoken to a doctor here in friend to your treatment. They laugh at the idea, yet my former doctor is anxious to see how I will come out under your treatment. However, I shall continue taking your treatment as long as I see that I am receiving any benefit whatever. Now, wishing you sincerely all success and good luck that you possibly come to my own, I remain,

Your servant and friend,
(Signed) J. C. BLOCKER.
Belmond, Iowa.

STOMACH AND KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Smallet, Mo., March 3, 1910.

Prof. S. Samuels.

Kind Sir—I received your letter a few days ago, in which you ask how I was progressing. I wish to say that I am at present feeling fine in every way, and have been improving in health wonderfully since taking the treatment, of which I commenced on the 3d of March, and not before telling you my treatment I assure you I was a miserable wreck. Could hardly eat about. Of course, I am not entirely well, but at present I feel better than I ever did in my whole life. I could really write several pages in describing my improvement, but I assure you will make a full report at the time I am cured, and will let you know more of my improvement in about two or three weeks.

Very truly yours,
PERRY A. McGUIRE,
Smallet, Mo.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

Professor Samuels:

I think it is due you to tell you how much benefit I have derived from your treatment. Have only been using this treatment two weeks and I feel like a few more weeks for laughter, and will be truly wonderful.

Before using this I was unable to perform my daily duties. Now I feel almost well, and I am confident that your treatment is a God-send, and I extend you my sincere thanks.

Very truly,
MRS. EDGAR TUNSTALL.
"Pinewood Plantation."

ASTHMA.

Burlington Jct., Mo., Oct. 10, 1910.

Prof. Samuels:

Dear Sirs—I have been an invalid for twenty-four years. Have been a sufferer from asthma and bronchial trouble. Have tried many remedies and have tried every remedy known to the M. D., but never found relief until I took your treatment. I have been taking treatment with you the latter part of March, and I believe I am cured by your treatment in the short time of six weeks.

Respectfully,
MRS. S. A. SMILEY,
Burlington Junction, Mo.

DEAFNESS CURED.

Connersville, Ind., Feb. 2, 1911.

Dear Sir—From neglect I have not written you about my case. Since commencing using your medicine I am more than pleased to say that I am entirely cured. I can hear as well as ever did, and the pain in my head is all gone. I am feeling better in every way since using your remedy. I have no glasses to send or would gladly do so. I am sending you a few names whom you can refer me to, and will write at once. Wishing you success, I remain,

Your friend,
ISAAC HUPNER,

SERIOUS STOMACH TROUBLE.

Orwellton, Tex., May 27, 1910.

Prof. H. Samuels.

Dear Sir—I am more than pleased to inform you that I am entirely cured from my trouble. Don't suffer but very little and have gone up to 150 pounds. Have not taken any medicine for the medicine. Please send me some at once, as I don't want to get behind with my work.

Your friend,
(Signed) A. SMITH.

A SUFFERER FROM REUMATISM, ASTHMA, INDIGESTION AND CATARRH.

Prof. H. Samuels.

Dear Sir—It is some time since I wrote you. Well, I am feeling fine. Rheumatism gone, asthma is gone, and my indigestion is all right. I can eat anything I want to, and I can go to bed and sleep all night, and don't have to get up and walk around, as I used to. My appetite is good. A thousand thanks to you.

Well, I have sold a lot of Mineral Cream and no doubt I will sell a lot more. I think it is a good medicine and that God bless you, and give you health and strength.

HEART, KIDNEY AND BOWEL TROUBLE.

Gibson Pa., June 29, 1911.

Prof. Samuels:

Dear Sir—Your treatment is so wonderful and I can never thank you enough for what it has done for me. I have had the doctors, but they were no good. I was about discouraged when I commenced your treatment, but I thought I would try it, and I am glad I did. I have gained in flesh and strength and feel like a new person. I will recommend your treatment to the Lord for help and relief for my fellow-men, and will also write to my friends. I will praise the name forever for the good I have received from your treatment. I have had your wonderful medicine and I think I will be all right. I will write you again and let you know how I am getting along.

When I commenced my treatment I could hardly walk across the floor, I was so weak and nervous I could hardly bear to talk to anyone. I was so nervous I could not sit still, I would get up and walk around. I was afraid of my life. I was so weak I could hardly dress myself, my head bothered me so much. I was afraid I would lose my mind. I was so weak I could not do my housework at all. I was so nervous I could not sew. I was so weak I could nearly faint sometimes, and I was afraid to be left alone. Your treatment has done me a world of good. I can now do my housework and sew. I am getting stronger every day. I feel better at night when I go to bed, and sleep better, and in short, I feel better than I have for years. I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

(Signed) Very truly yours,
MRS. IDORA WIGGINS.

BETTER THAN DOCTORS AND PATENT MEDICINE.

Nolanway, Okla., Aug. 26, 1910.

Prof. Samuels:

Dear Sir—In regard to your treatment will say it has helped me more and gained more than have those of the doctors and patent medicines I have tried for several years, and I have derived considerable.

Now, I am sorry to say that I am going to be put along without my home machines. Will wait a month and see how I feel.

Thanking you for your kindness and repairing the broken bottle, I am,

Yours respectfully,
(Signed) S. D. LORTON.

Note—Mr. Lorton has not ordered more treatment since writing the above letter.

RHEUMATISM AND KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Fitzner, Miss., May 24, 1910.

Prof. Samuels:

Dear Sir—I will write and tell you about my case. Since I commenced using your treatment I have been feeling much better. Before using your treatment I was troubled with a headache most of the time, but now I am not bothered any more, and I feel better in general. Hoping to hear from you again, I remain,

Respectfully yours,
(Signed) H. L. DECKER.
Fitzner, Miss.

CATARRH AND RHEUMATISM.

Durant, Miss., Aug. 29, 1910.

My Dear Doctor—Now I think I have treated you too bad, but there has been so much sickness I had no time, yet I can't see enough for your treatment. I have been cured of my catarrh, and my head is all right, and my rheumatism is about gone. Will thank you more soon. Now, I have plenty for you more week and if I see I need more will send you more or will send for more.

I want you also to take one month's treatment and I think I will get him to be has had plenty to much. Now I have given all the names you sent me some and they all say they will write you and get some of your treatment. Some one has consumption. I have not seen him since I sent you the last. Now, you may be sure I will help you all I can. Thanking you so much, many times.

Your friend,
MRS. W. H. MILTON.

84 YEARS OLD.

Read the following letter from Mary A. Watts, Star City, Ind. Mrs. Watts is 84 years old and her letter is a very interesting one, especially to those beginning to feel the effects of old age.

Star City, Ind., Aug. 24, 1910.

Prof. Samuels:

I have taken two months' treatment from you and now feel like a new person. I am 84 years old, nearly blind, and can't see to read, but now I can see to read my bible. I am so much stronger and can do more work. I feel like I am only 60 years old. I am glad I have taken your medicine. With the help of God it has made me well.

Yours truly,
MARY A. WATTS.

KIDNEY AND GENERAL TROUBLE.

Bernard, N. Dak., Sept. 27, 1910.

Prof. H. Samuels:

Dear Sir—I am writing to let you know how much good your treatment has done me now and my eyesight is almost perfect. I received the last treatment you sent me, and am through the treatment. I will be permanently cured of my kidney disease, also my case of kidney trouble before Feb. 20th, 1911, and consider it a very uncommon chance to write me. I think the month's treatment has done me already and hardly think I will need any more.

Yours truly,
WALTER BURST.

NERVES.

Orient, Iowa, Oct. 24, 1910.

Prof. H. Samuels:

Dear Sir—I will write you a few lines. I received the last treatment you sent me and continue since that time. I am feeling fine. I am hardly weakened. I feel from that time I have got your address. Tell them Prof. Samuels' treatment must and I will be sure to cure them. M. D. doctor could have put me on my feet in a month, but I am well of the time since the only thing.

I feel that I ought to take a month or two treatment, and I will send for it. Yours truly,
MR. JOHNNIE HENGSTLOUP.

COULD NOT SEE FOR ONE YEAR.

Benhams, Va., May 25, 1910.

Prof. H. Samuels:

Dear Sir—I have been using your medicine according to directing a fraction over one month, and I am very thankful to you that my eyes have been greatly improved by your treatment. I have been able to see to read fine print for a few days, the first time I have seen for twelve months, and I can see the flowers and the objects around me fairly well. The catarrh in my head I feel is almost cured, and the settling in my throat and also half bottles of medicine left. I will continue my efforts and will send for more of the medicine when I can draw from.

Professor, having confidence that my eyesight will be restored by your wonderful treatment, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) WILLIAM WOOD.

CATARRH OF STOMACH.

Wilmot, N. D., May 12, 1910.

Prof. Samuels:

Dear Sir—I am feeling much better now than I did before I started the treatment, and believed you will find money for which I send one another month's treatment, and I thank you for what you have already done for me. God bless you.

Yours truly,
F. F. ENRICH.

DIABETES.

Agra, Kas., May 10, 1910.

Prof. H. Samuels:

Dear Sir—I thought I would drop you a few lines to let you know I am getting along fine. I am also pregnant than I was. I have two more months to take some time yet. My weight is 150 pounds. I feel fine. I will be glad to hear from you at any time.

Yours truly,
(Signed) MRS. JOHN GORACKE.

HEART AND KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Mountain Home, May 24, 1910.

Prof. H. Samuels:

Dear Sir—I am sorry for a slight moment to confess I am at the far language and expression to write you as I would like, but your remedy has reduced to me. One who has suffered with heart and kidney trouble for many years, and have tried many remedies, but found no relief. I am sure some better, but I don't experience anything that will equal to them, which almost my nerves had, I am pleased to say that I have found relief that I have needed.

Yours respectfully,
(Signed) MRS. E. BLAND.

Wonderful Experiment With One Month's Treatment.

Mt. Vernon, Ind., Dec. 2, 1911.

Prof. H. Samuels:

Dear Sir—I received 3 months treatment from you on the 20th of August for my wife's deafness and rheumatism. She has taken the treatment according to directions and has used one month and one-half. She has gained 20 pounds in weight. She was almost deaf and could not hear the clock strike. She can hear at this time as well as the treatment that she has taken was a very uncommon chance with me. I think the month's treatment has done me already and hardly think I will need any more.

Yours truly,
WALTER BURST.

KIDNEY AND LIVER TROUBLE.

Shermerville, Conn., Oct. 24, 1911.

Prof. H. Samuels:

Dear Sir—I write now to tell you that I think I am cured after taking three months' treatment.

I have been sick with kidney and liver trouble for a number of years, but now I have been able to attend to my work, but have not been able to do a day's work for a year. I am now able to do a day's work, and I am glad to say that I am cured. I have taken three months' treatment and now feel well.

Wishing you all the success, I remain,

Yours truly,
J. W. PITTMAN.

MY METHOD OF TREATMENT

The method of treatment which I have originated is a strange and peculiar method, differing from anything else used by any living man in the treatment of diseases. I do not use the drastic drugs and medicines that doctors depend upon.

Men who are familiar with the chemistry of the human body understand that only the chemical elements used in the creation of the body are required to restore it to health when the functional power becomes impaired. Nature does not require a mass of drugs dumped into the stomach which merely represent an accumulation of foreign substances which must eventually be eliminated from the system. When Mother Nature created mankind she used no mercury, no strychnine, no quinine, no digitalis, no morphine or other poisonous chemicals such as the doctors delight to prescribe for you, and she needs none of them to accomplish any restorative work that may be necessary in your behalf.

My remedies are obtained by dropping a colorless liquid which I prepare into the eye. Strange as it may seem, so-called incurable cases of Consumption, Bright's Disease, Dropsy, Epileptic Fits, Nervous Prostration are treated in this apparently miraculous way. My system is based absolutely on scientific principles. The eye is the window of the soul. I have evolved a system of treating other bodily ills based upon the relation of the eye to the system as a whole. This may seem strange, but my thousands of patients testify to the value of my treatment.

If you are sick or ailing, you will find something in my Message of Facts, which I am sending free to everyone, that will greatly interest you. I explain my method of healing and give you absolute proof of its value. If you are tired of taking strong drugs into the stomach, if you have gotten to the point where you believe there is no hope, if you have tried all kinds of treatment your doctor could suggest without its benefiting you, write to me to-day for my Message of Facts. It tells you something about the peculiar liquid which I prepare, and of a more scientific and more natural method of treatment. Send me the coupon properly filled out or send me your name and address on a post card and my "Message of Facts" will be sent you by return mail free.

WINTHROP AMES' NOVEL THEATRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—New York, which already has the biggest theatre in the world in its Hippodrome, is also soon to have the littlest in a house that will be almost miniature in size, to be owned and managed by Winthrop Ames.

The plans of this playhouse, about which nothing was known until yesterday, have already been drawn. Options have been secured on two sites in localities. One is on the north side of Forty-fourth street west of Broadway, and almost adjoining the site of the proposed second New Theatre, and the other is in West Forty-fifth street, near the property on which Lee Shubert intends to build a playhouse as a memorial to his brother, the late Sam S. Shubert.

Five months ago, when Winthrop Ames announced his resignation as director of the New Theatre and stated that he would not be a candidate for the position when the second New Theatre was built, he hinted that he might soon open an experiment in play production which would surprise New York. His plan was not fully developed then, but it turns out to be a playhouse which will be more like a big drawing room than a place of stage amusement.

This theatre, which will be managed personally by Ames on the lines of the Little Theatre in London, will be considerably smaller than the Comedy Theatre in West Forty-first street, which seats barely 600 people.

CENTENNIAL OF PERRY'S VICTORY

PUT-IN BAY, O., Sept. 9.—The centennial celebration of Commodore Perry's victory over the British on Lake Erie in the war of 1812 opened to-day and will last until Sunday. In connection with this celebration the National Perry Commission is holding a three-day meeting.

MRS. LOUIS REAM, BRIDE OF STEEL MAGNATE'S SON

ELEANOR PENDLETON

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Norman B. Ream, steel trust man, has forgiven his son, Louis, for his runaway marriage with Ethel Pendleton, a show girl. At her home in Chicago she told a reporter that everything had been settled amicably. "The old folks have forgiven me," she declares; "I'm happy."

DWIGHT FUNERAL IS HELD TUESDAY

The requiem mass for the late Dr. Thomas Dwight, succeeding Oliver Wendell Holmes in the Parkman professorship at Harvard, who died yesterday at his summer home in Nahant, will be sung at the Cathedral on Tuesday morning. The arrangements for the services and the hour are not decided and probably will not be until something definite is known as to the arrival from Europe of Archbishop O'Connell. The archbishop is a classmate with Monsignor Splaine, on the 88. Kronland, which left Belgium last Saturday.

ARMY WORK FOR BAY STATE MILLS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Woolen manufacturers of Massachusetts are to have a harvest in army contracts as the result of the decision of the War Department to clothe the soldiers in modern instead of worsteds. Awards have been made for contracts amounting to more than $2000,000, which is but one-third of the amount to be expended by the department for army clothing during the current fiscal year.

Of these contracts, all but $140,000 worth, which were awarded to a Philadelphia concern, were awarded to Massachusetts manufacturers, who won out in one of the largest competitions the War Department has ever had.

The successful bidders, as announced by the War Department, are the American Woolen Company of Boston, 60,000 yards for breeches, at $1.18 per yard; the Hermonin mills of Holyoke, 165,000 yards for coats, at 96 and 99 cents per yard; H. T. Kent of Philadelphia, 10,000 yards for overcoats, at $1.40 per yard, and the Roberts & Sloan of Monson, 30,000 yards for overcoats, at $1.40 per yard, and A. B. Ellis of Monson, 10,000 yards for overcoats, at $1.40 per yard.

The change from the use of worsted to woolen is part and parcel of the general scheme of economy set in motion by General Leonard Wood, chief of staff. On the clothing of the rank and file General Wood expects to save almost $400,000 a year. On the contracts just let $112,000 will be saved.

General Wood settled finally the controversy that has been raging in the department for several months over the new type of campaign hat for the army. The various boards finally agreed on a type, but General Wood vetoed their findings and ordered a more modest one. The accepted style is a felt hat, nearer olive-drab than gray in color. It has a stiff straight three-inch brim and a crown that goes up to what is known as the "Montana peak."

Another change ordered by General Wood is the introduction of a sweater as part of the ordinary uniform. The new sweater is olive-drab in color and made of the best wool. It fits tight at the neck and has three buttons, allowing it to be opened from the waist up.

SCORE HEARST AT MONTREAL

By WILLIAM HOSTER.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 9.—Premier is Mass-meeting on Champ de Mars.

Saturday night, Sept. 9, 1911.

A strong protest will be made against foreign interference in our domestic affairs by meddlesome and mischievous and envious journalists and their lying correspondents in Canada.

Speeches will be made in English and French. A number of anti-reciprocity candidates will speak.

William R. Hearst of New York, was invited to bring along proof of the needle fraud case, but he will not be present.

Speaking begins at 8 o'clock.

God Save the King.

Handbills by the thousands containing the above announcement have been distributed all over the city of Montreal by the organizers of the anti-Hearst meeting scheduled for the field of war to-night. At the same time further details of the meeting were made public in the Evening Star, which printed the following:

Can Take Care of Trusts.

"Messrs. Pope and Pelletier said to a Star reporter to-day that the meeting will go on just the same—Hearst or no Hearst. 'If the trusts are operating in Canada Canadians are able to take care of them. We do not and we will not have Hearst in dictation or direction. His impudent interference is intolerable.'

"Suppose a Canadian paper pursued the like course in Boston during an American election, and represented that we had thrown into the river, very properly, two Yankees named Hearst, in order that the administration of the Canadian law against the trusts does not lead to any implementing on his part. The charge that Hearst is financing the Liberal party in Canada is absurd. It is a bogey under cover of which Hearst is pursuing his usual tactics. The electorate of Canada is not Hearst to put a fake over on. He has damned his tune, and proceeds to be fighting the trusts—'trust-busting' them in Canada.

"They do not get what they want and the desertions from the Liberal ship prove it."

Reply to American.

It was also announced that Messrs. Pelletier and Pope had made the following reply to the New York American's answer to the invitation to Mr. Hearst to attend this meeting:

Montreal, September 7, 1911.

"The Editor, The American, New York:

"Your telegram received. Perhaps you would come up on Mr. Hearst's behalf if you want to see a real 'vulgar outbreak.' Try and be present on Saturday night.

"LOUIS PELLETIER, RUFUS POPE."

Barring the unprovoked assault on the King's English in this telegram it is held by the "right start" for the end of demonstration the city is calm.

The political campaign has taken a humorous turn in the form of "a mass meeting" to be held to-night protesting by Mr. Louis Pelletier and Rufus Pope, to protest against Mr. Hearst sending his correspondents and newspapers into Canada. Mr. Hearst himself has been invited. A telegram was sent to him, a very serious telegram, in which the organizers of the meeting declared themselves to be earnest in their wrath.

FOWLER BEGINS TRIP TO-MORROW

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 9.—The Rotary Club of San Francisco, having proffered its offer of $10,000 to the aviator who would start from that city on the flight for the $50,000 Hearst prize across the continent, Robert G. Fowler has determined to make his start from Los Angeles to-morrow morning.

Today Promoter Grundy kept in telegraphic communication with the Salt Lake Railroad so that arrangements for the special train which the road has offered to provide to accompany the aviator might not be delayed. The aviator has practically decided to follow the line of the Salt Lake Railroad.

From Los Angeles eastward some aviator experienced in the topography of the course which Fowler will follow will travel one day ahead of him so that each night he may be informed by wire of the exact conditions to expect on the next day's flight.

Fowler's aeroplane was assembled today by expert mechanicians and every part thoroughly tested. Fowler is confident he will be able to make the long flight across the continent and thus establish a new world's cross-country record.

A record-breaking crowd is expected on Dominguez Field for the start to-morrow morning. Fowler will make short stops at Pomona, but his first landing will probably be at Riverside. From there he counts like over San Bernardino and over the Slate line toward Salt Lake City.

The aviator will have to fly over hot desert tracts in Utah that will try both his endurance and the staying qualities of his machine.

CREATES A NEW SPECIES OF LIFE

VIENNA, Sept. 9.—Professor Pribram, experimenting at the Biological Institute, has made lizards produce living young instead of laying eggs. He has established the possibility of changing, on a preconceived plan, the color of animals, the form of the wings of insects very low in the scale, and the structure of their skin. He has produced these changes by applying high temperatures to the creatures he experimented on, and their young have inherited these changes.

Professor Poch, the great biologist and ethnologist, says in an interview that there are now no fixed rigid forms of animal life; man can change them in a methodical, scientific way, thus opening up possibilities of improving and ennobling the human race.

The pioneers in this wonderful work are Professor Loeb of the University of California and Luther Burbank and, where they have shown the way, Professor Pribram has been diligently following with wonderful success.

DALY STILL CALLS FOR MORE FIREMEN

Fire Commissioner Daly, in a report to the Fire Hazard Commission, repeats his declaration that fifty more men are needed in his department. He says there should be an extension of the building limits and an appropriation of $200,000 for new automobile fire apparatus.

"These measures are necessary and then should be accomplished in the immediate future," the commissioner declares.

Mr. Daly reports that certain sections of the city are sufficiently protected with the present force, but that if it could be increased sections should have an increased number of men to properly protect property from fire. In specifying he says: Ladder 7, Engine 17, Engine 18 and Engine 46 should be kept strong. These are the most important companies in Dorchester, where the heartiest fire risk exists.

CONTEST BOARD KIND TO SLOANE

By J. C. KERRISON.

The Contest Board of the American Automobile Association has again shown its ability to forgive and forget by reinstating J. Alock Sloane, who was associated with Barney Oldfield and "Bill" Pickens.

It will be remembered that Sloane was suspended for his actions at the Readville track about a year ago, when he and Oldfield, and the whole Oldfield camp in fact, openly defied the A. A. A. and made it for a time at least the laughing stock of the country.

What Mr. Sloane has since done to merit this kind action on the part of the board has not been stated. Still, it is another illustration that the A. A. A. likes those who assail it. The next thing on the program, in order to be consistent, will be for the Contest Board to reinstate both Oldfield and "Bill" Pickens.

* * *

The American Locomotive Company, builder of the Aleo car, is debating whether or not to give up racing. The Aleo won the Vanderbilt cup race in 1909 and with the same machine doing it. If the decision is to quit racing, Henry Grant, who won these two races, undoubtedly will be in demand elsewhere provided he wants to keep on driving racing cars. Grant is a Keen judge of pace, and it was Grant and his ability to keep his car going at a rate he set out to maintain that won the two Vanderbilts for him.

With self-starting devices—if they do really "self-start"—the motorist probably will save money in gasoline. He won't be under any temptation to leave his car standing at the curb with the engine running, the temptation, on the part of a thief to take a ride in a car that is not at a halt at a railroad crossing the motor may be turned off because—in theory—there never will be any need of climbing out afterward to crank it over.

GERAGHTYS NOW ARRANGING HOME

NEWPORT, Sept. 9.—The "Jack" Geraghtys are now established in their new home on Everett street and Mrs. Geraghty is busy superintending the colored servant they have engaged in setting the house to rights. Much remains to be done before the house is settled, but with the enthusiasm of young married couples the Geraghtys are settling to work with a will. Mrs. Geraghty has stocked the pantry with a liberal hand and will cook an occasional meal, although the burden of the work will fall upon the servant.

Young Geraghty has resumed work at the garage where he is a partner with H. E. Fender. His bride is a great chum of her sister-in-law, Miss Geraghty, and the two are frequently seen together.

The young people are still entertained by the bride's family. Several appeals for a reconciliation which she has sent them have been unanswered. Mrs. Geraghty is still as determined as ever that any forgiveness should include her husband, and until that is granted it is not expected she will make any more overtures.

Any of your favorite pictures—no matter how small—can be enlarged FREE, provided only that they are clear and distinct. This is the opportunity of a life time to put into artistic, permanent form the portrait of some dear one or the snapshot souvenir of some outing trip.

$1.50 Enlargements Given Away

THE enlarged photograph which The Sunday American will give you and everybody FREE could not be bought at any store for less than $2.50. It will be made for you in the studios of the J. W. Holloway Co., one of the largest producers of photographic enlargements of the highest class.

Each of these superb pictures will be of the new diamond or oval shape, size 12½x17 inches, and will reproduce, with the most lifelike fidelity, every detail of the original. They will be printed in artistic black and white effects on heat quality bromide paper, carefully mounted on cardboard, and treated with a special fixing solution, which absolutely prevents fading or discoloring.

There are no strings to this offer. You are not required to buy a frame or to go to any expense whatever. The Sunday American guarantees the safe return of your original photograph and the delivery to you, without charge, of a beautiful, enlarged picture which would otherwise cost you from $2.50 to $10.

The only requirement is that you be over 16 years of age and have three consecutively numbered coupons which will appear in The Sunday American, one each week, and these are easy to get if you will order your paper from your newsdealer in advance. Mail orders positively will not be accepted. Your set of coupons must be presented at Photograph Department, 275 Devonshire street, in order that you may give the necessary instructions for the proper finishing of the photograph which you wish enlarged.

Start saving the coupons to-morrow, and get a picture that will be a real adornment to your home.

ASTOR IS MARRIED AT NEWPORT SUMMER HOME

Takes Miss Force as Second Bride in Drawing Room of Beechwood, His Summer Home.

Mr. Straight was asked if that was to be his pay he replied:

"I have not made any financial arrangements. I do not ask any price. I take what it gives me."

Society Not Bidden.

Colonel Astor had the license and had attended to every legal formality which was required. But no church had been decorated for the ceremony and society had not put on its best silk and tucker to attend. Although the Episcopal Church had frowned upon the marriage of perhaps its wealthiest communicant, Colonel Astor could have had his home filled with multi-millionaires as wedding guests if he had sent out the invitations.

Ever since the engagement of Colonel Astor and Miss Force was announced his palatial yacht Nourmahal has been a place of refuge for them. They were aboard that craft when word came that the clergyman were on hand and everything was ready. The Nourmahal being equipped by more eyes than were ever focussed upon a dreadnought when Colonel Astor, Miss Force and the wedding party left it in a launch for shore.

The party landed at the beach at the foot of Wellington avenue. The women in the party were heavily veiled. Two automobiles were in waiting. The party was whirled in them to "Beechwood." There was nothing about the exterior of that magnificent villa to indicate that the bridegroom had taken unto himself a second wife. After Colonel Astor, the bride-elect and Mrs. Astor's near family entered "Beechwood," one of the automobiles was sent on a mysterious errand. It returned with Miss Roberta Willard.

The wedding services did not take long and the girl bride was the coolest person in the party. She stepped into a new social position as if to the manner born, and although she has millions of money, yachts, villas, automobiles, whole suites of horses, on occasions wedding flowers, a town house and exalted society position of no great consequence, she wore unpronounced Mrs. Jacob Astor she turned upon the Colonel with a fond and happy smile.

Col. Astor Jubilant.

Colonel Astor's face beamed with happiness after the ceremony and he is reported to have said:

"Now that we are happily married, I don't care how difficult divorce and remarriages here are made. Any impediment heavily with the most straight laced people in front of their doors, but believe remarriage should be possible once as marriage is the most important condition for individuals and for the community.

"Vincent Astor, the colonel's son by his first marriage, was best man and the bridesmaid was Miss Katherine Rhinelander, sister of the bride. Mrs. Eldred, a friend of the Force family, attended young Mrs. Astor's mother.

Among the first to congratulate the groom were W. A. Delano, his private secretary, Thomas Hadden, Attorney Campbell. The Astor servants who call their master and now mistress "good luck" as they left "Beechwood" for the train.

While the villa showed no exterior signs that it was the scene of a wedding it was sumptuously decorated inside with costly flowers and plants. The name was one of the Nonni. The Astor greenhouses, which take rank with the best in the world, had been ransacked to make a floral display in halls and villa.

May Sue Dr. Richmond.

It is about a year since Colonel Astor and the first Mrs. Astor were separated by divorce, after being many years wife for more than a score of years. She was Miss Ava Willing, the belle of Philadelphia, when he wooed and won her. She is still remarkable for her beauty.

It is understood that William Force, the father of today's bride will seek legal redress from the Rev. George Charles Richmond of Philadelphia, the Episcopal divine who was first to attack Col. Astor and the Force family on account of the matrimonial alliance of today.

One outraged individual has threatened the egregious Dr. Richmond with a suit for damages brought by Bridget M. F. McConlan, whose husband was electrocuted while resolving telephone wires at the Astor residence in July of 1910. She is asking $50,000. Colonel Astor was much annoyed at the delay. He tried to persuade the sheriff to serve the papers upon him by proxy, but the official refused.

The Rev. Mr. Straight's twofold calling in life are shown by his two sets of business cards, in which the ministry and the carpentry trade are kept separated. When he is drumming up business in the clerical line his card reads:

"Rev. Edwin S. Straight, Marriages and Funerals Attended, Pulpits Supplied. Residence, 74 Dodge street, Providence, R. I."

When Mr. Straight is looking for temporal business here is the card he presents:

"Edwin S. Straight, Carpenter and Builder, Jobbing of Every Kind A Specialty and Promptly Attended To. Drop Postal and I will call. Office and residence, 74 Dodge street, Providence, R. I."

In addition to being a semi-active clergyman and an active carpenter, Mr. Straight was formerly interested in Spiritualism, according to a local leader of the cult, who says he formerly made addresses in favor of Spiritualism on several occasions.

The patriarchal pastor, who put away his carpenter's frock to don the cloth of the church at today's wedding, was found after a long search by Colonel Astor's agents. Many ministers had refused definite offers of $1,000 to perform the ceremony. Rev. Mr. Straight today declared they were foolish.

Willing to Marry Anybody.

"I will marry anybody with a license," declared Rev. Mr. Straight today. "It is much better to marry people who have been divorced and want to be married again than to refuse to do so. It is my custom never to set any price on my services in performing a marriage. I am willing to take as little or as much as is freely given me. I think Rev. F. Lewis

MARRIAGES NOT MADE IN HEAVEN SAYS MINISTER HIRED BY ASTOR

I do not believe that matrimony is a divine institution, nor do I believe that marriages are made in heaven. Marriage is a civil affair and if any of them are made in heaven, they are mostly spoiled in the making.

I will marry Colonel Astor and Miss Force, provided they have the license. That is all I shall require of them. I know that I will be criticised, but I don't care.

I marry anyone who comes to me, and I don't ask how much I am to get, either. I take just whatever is given me and am thankful.

I haven't set any price on the Astor wedding. I am simply going down to Newport on the 7.20 train in the morning, with Mr. Canning of the firm of Comstock & Canning, and if I perform the ceremony, I shall take what is given me.

Ministers may call me a scab, but that don't hurt me, as I feel that I am only doing in this case what I would do for any other person.—The Rev. Edwin S. Straight, retired Baptist minister and carpenter of Providence.

Unable to Find a Minister of His Own Denomination to Officiate at the Ceremony.

Brooks of Little Compton and Rev. Edward A. Johnson of Newport, who are said to have turned down offers of $1,000 each to perform the ceremony, were unwise.

Marrying was almost a business with the Rev. Mr. Straight for many years, under Rhode Island's easy laws which made the State a latter-day Gretna Green, but the adoption of the three months' regulation a year ago curtailed his income from this direction. Since January 1 Mr. Straight has performed only two marriages, he says.

Miss Force's Gowns.

Unlike the trousseaus of most brides, the wedding outfit of Miss Force will be incomplete. It is limited in Fifth avenue shops where Miss Force has done much recent shopping that there is no wedding gown, as she was to be married in one of her six tailored suits. She has left her outfit unfinished because in this, the period "between seasons," she knew that she would in all probability be married in one she returns from the honeymoon she will have a handsome new wardrobe awaiting her.

One milliner confesses she has supplied many of the wants of Miss Force in hats, evening gowns and wraps. Two gowns reception dresses and street suits. Most of these garments, especially, evening gowns were made here. The hats numbered eight. For the most part they are large black flat shapes with flares. There is one black velvet hat with a huge black ostrich plume. Another small hat is a red felt toque. The small hats come down well over the eyes in the prevailing mode.

Other hats are described as follows: A large flat hat of navy blue taffeta with a graceful drape of silk extending over the low crown and a scarlet rose on one side of the brim. A turnover of white gloss is faced in black plush, with two russets of ostrich feathers which lie flat on the brim and a bow of white grosgrain ribbon above.

Another hat is of black satin beaver, faced in black velvet. About the small, dome-like crown are two rows of brown skunk fur and at the side are two scarlet bunches of quills in gray and brown. Another hat is a wide, down-setting thing of black velvet, with a single white plume falling over the top.

Miss Force received six suits from one company. Two are of dark blue serge, cut along straight, mannish lines. Another is of black velvet, severely made; another of white serge, one black and white and one gray.

In his application for a marriage license Colonel Astor stated that he is forty-seven years old and has been married before and divorced. His bride gave her age as twenty.

As the Nonni has been coaled and provisioned for a long cruise it is expected that the Astors will spend their honeymoon on the ocean.

LINDSAY MORISON, WHO WILL ACT IN "JIM THE PENMAN"

Lindsay Morison will not retire from the Majestic Theatre without knowing how he stands with the people who have followed his successful Summer season of stock productions at that house.

As a final effort to give his patrons something out of the ordinary Mr. Morison has installed himself in the cast of "Jim The Penman" next week, which marks his first appearance on the stage for six years, and on Tuesday evening he will be compelled to face a big residential that his friends have arranged.

Members of Aleppo Temple, Mystic Shrine, will attend the performance in a body and, it is said, Mr. Morison will be urged to make a guest presence in the house the entire evening.

NEEDHAM MILLS TO GO ON FULL TIME

Notices were posted today in the Williams Carter Company's knitting mills at Needham Heights that they would run full time beginning next Monday. This is welcome news to more than 300 employes, who have been on a part-time schedule for two months. Industries also point to a distinct improvement in other mill lines in Needham, and the season is likely to prove better than anticipated.

TENEAN GIRLS ORGANIZE CLUB

The Teneau Girls' Swimming Club is the name of a new organization in Dorchester. It was formed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice R. Smith, No. 112 Tonawanda street, as a result of the interest given to girls' swimming by the contest for cups presented by the AMERICAN, swum for last Saturday afternoon in the Charles River Basin.

Mr. Smith, the swimming instructor at Teneau Beach, was so delighted with his girls carrying off four prizes in the AMERICAN'S race, that he and his wife, who is proud of the results of his instruction, decided to give a reception to the contestants. Almost all of those entered for Teneau had the largest entry list—and until a late hour they made merry with dancing, games and refreshments.

Nobody suggested that there was a star for the coming of officers, but the four four girls was reached the mark in the AMERICAN'S race were named to the order in which they finished. Marion Glenn, president; Gertrude Gibson, vice-president; Mollie Rosenthal, treasurer, and Whalen Cooley, secretary.

A vote of thanks to the AMERICAN and its representatives was passed for arranging the contest. Among the objects of the club are to keep the girls together in all athletic events for the coming season, and encourage the practice of the natatorial art among their younger sisters.

JOYFUL NEWS

I do not offer you make-shifts such as artificial ear drums or other apparatus; I do not approve of subjecting your system with habit-forming drugs. I am not content to merely give you a brief period of relief from deafness but my aim is

TO CURE YOU PERMANENTLY

I am a practising physician of 25 years' active, extensive, experience, and have had the privilege of treating cases of deafness and head noises in getting at the seat of the trouble and curing it. I have written a book, fully illustrated, telling you all about my system of treatment and cures. This book I will send you absolutely free, postage prepaid, and I am sure you cannot help but be interested in it. It tells you the very reason you have been deaf, and will interest you about the one Method you have not heard of before, which is unquestionably the most successful.

DEAFNESS IS DANGEROUS

There always was some danger in being deaf but when the present call to arms is sounded, deafness becomes a positive menace. Many deaf persons are now rejected for military service and are total rejected for commands. Moreover, deafness among civilians is a Great Draw to Almost All Forms of Accidents. Prevents You from Enjoying Theatres, Concerts, etc. Makes You a Poor Risk in Companies. Hinders Your Success in Business or Society. Stops You from Enjoying Social Security of Nature. It is utterly dead with Acrobatics and Despondency. My book explains why the very presence of deafness in the head tends to make it worse and how you are becoming a little harder of hearing every day. It tells you how to check the trouble and how to overcome it.

SHORTENING YOUR LIFE

My book tells you how I have cured cases which have been given up as hopeless, it explains wherein you may gain wonderful benefit from the very outset. It is a book for men and women of any age. It fearlessly exposes the frauds that prey upon those who are deaf. It shows you how Nature is patiently waiting for you to give her a chance to help you. This book you ought to have. It is WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD to you, yet it will cost you nothing but the expense of BOOK ABOUT PERFECT HEARING a postcard or stamp in writing for it. Don't pass this by and say "I'll write tomorrow." Do it today. MULDOON RIDICULES TALK OF FAKE IN BIG GOTCH-HACK MATCH

Evers Finds Second Base the Best for Inside Plays

By BILL BAILEY.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Johnny Evers, who is playing third base for the Cubs, says that there are more opportunities for playing inside baseball at his old position at the second station.

And the Trojan also remarks that the hot shots which come at him are no difficult to handle than the bounders which he scooped in the neighborhood of second.

So it's a toss up as still as to which the Trojan regards as the more difficult position to play. And an opinion was wanted from Evers for the fans are constantly bombarding one with the question as to which is the hardest position on the field to play.

"Every third base is new to me," began the Trojan, "and maybe after I have been there a bit longer I will be able to answer that oft repeated question, but if I get a third base is a lighter one than second to play.

Third Place a Gamble.

"Right now it strikes me that there is more luck in playing third base. You get them or you don't. I mean by that for hot shots. When one of those line drives of swift ground-rollers comes at you there isn't time to play the ball. You leap and knock the ball down if you can. If I get it right at you it is just as quickly that you don't get a square crack at it. Playing third base is pretty much of a gamble.

"If the ball happens to be hit right to you then you get it. Otherwise you're in nothing good.

"Down on second it is different. You have time to play the ball, come in to it and get it right. There are chances to take at third more difficult than at second.

"There is a whole lot more inside baseball around third. The ball is hit harder, therefore putting the batter is almost impossible at third. You have to play for a bunt or you play deep.

"There is no moving to the right and no moving to the left. When you are at second you have more opportunity to study your batter and you play him accordingly. Know that he will bunt, you nearer second or a step or two nearer the first.

Must Play One Place.

Nothing like that at third. You play in for a bunt or you play back for a clout.

"When it comes to throwing, third base is by far more difficult than second. There is where you take the ball and return it on the double steal. You have that same throw, or, rather, a throw for the same distance, every time you handle a ball at second.

"And the difficulty is not in making the throw so much as it is that a man seriously handicapped when he must turn around to throw. Now take the Trojan game between the Cubs and Pirates. I did not have a chance all afternoon.

"It is this which makes it much easier for a man to leave his own play-ing third. Well, say that he goes over seven innings without a ball being hit at him. In the eighth or ninth the ball comes sharp and climbs to first. The chances of fielding this one are small, but the odds are great, for the reason that his arm has been limbered up and he will have had time to stiffen since the practice.

Advantage at Second.

"Down at second base a man probably has handled the ball many times. He hasn't had that number of assists, of course, but he has poised the ball from the outfield and has fielded the ball to first plays until there is no comparison between the three. Just a guess, but I would say at second and at third.

"The result is that the man at second has kept his arm in shape throughout the game.

"After playing both positions, it is my opinion that second base is the easier of the two. Also it is the more desirable, where a man has opportunities of applying his knowledge of batters. It is the position where one can play for the game and watch the outfielder chase it."—Hess.

AMERICANS TO PLAY BRITISH

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Lawn tennis players of the British Isles and the American international cup team will meet today in the first of the international games for the right to challenge the Australian holders of the Davis cup, emblematic of the world's championship at lawn tennis. On the turf courts of the West Side Tennis Club of this city, William A. Larned, the seven-time holder of the American singles title, will meet Herbert Roper Barrett, champion of England, and Wentworth Dixon, captain of the British team; while Maurice E. McLoughlin of California will meet A. H. Lowe of the British challengers.

The series for the right to the challenge consists of four matches, all to be played today, nine matches in all. The doubles will be played on Monday, Thomas C. Bundy of Chicago and Harold Throckmorton Hackett of this city, against Dixon and A. F. Beamish, the third member of the English team, on Tuesday the second set of singles will be played, Larned then facing Lowe and McLoughlin meeting Dixon. On the last day of the series the challenging nation the right to go to Australia, where they will meet the holders for the coming series that offered in 1900 by D. F. Davis, of this city, when he was a student at Harvard. The English challenged for it in 1903, but did not win the first match, when H. L. and R. Doherty, the latter of the first that he took up the game, at the Longwood Cricket Club, Boston. In 1907 the Australians—A. W. Dunlop and R. L. Brookes—defeated B. C. Wright and Kurt H. Behr in the first and second of the cup against A. W. Gore, Roper Barrett and M. J. G. Ritchie, since that time America has been the only nation to try for the Australian cup. Tennis enthusiasts hope for its return this year when the matches are played at Christ Church, New Zealand.

JACK AHEARN WINS FROM TOMMY MALONEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Young Ahearn, the young Brooklyn lightweight, outpointed Tommy Maloney of the West Side last night in their 10-round bout at the Twentieth Century A. C. It was merely the case of the jagged boxer Maloney against the shifty one, and in many corners, mingling up, Brooklyn boy was entitled to the honors, in view of the fact that he took all the punishment that his opponent could hand out without showing any real danger, and landed on his opponent often.

The third of R. W. Lardner's stories on the coming world's series—discussing the chance the Chicago Cubs would have to win should they repeat in the National League race, and the strength and weakness of Chance's team as compared with the Athletics—will appear in THE SUNDAY AMERICAN.

Hey, You! Have you got a football eleven? Do you want games? Well, then send in your challenges.

As usual, the AMERICAN leads all others in giving you a chance through its columns to challenge your rivals. Start the football season of 1911 in the right way. Let your friends know that you have got a football team by sending in your challenge to the Amateur Football Editor, Boston AMERICAN, Boston, Mass.

EAST BOSTON MAN ONE OF LEADERS IN VOTE CONTEST

22 DAYS MORE TO GET VOTES

In just twenty-two days the polls will close in the AMERICAN'S Contest for free trips to the World's Series Games. It's only a very short time—but in that time wonders can be accomplished by any candidate who persistently goes among his friends and acquaintances and solicits their support in the battle of votes.

And it is surely worth while!

The ten candidates who receive the greatest number of votes before the polls close on October 1, will be awarded the free trips.

They will go, all expenses paid, to whichever cities the championship games are held in, and will travel luxuriously on the best trains, stop at the best hotels, and have best seats at the ball parks, and in short all will have the time of their lives—and all at the expense of the AMERICAN.

The second list of candidates standing will appear in tomorrow's Sunday AMERICAN. This list will show the total votes polled by each candidate up to Wednesday night of this week.

Look the list over carefully! Are YOU doing all that YOU should to help some one of these rival fans to get his trip?

Select from the list some good fan, and then get busy and boost him to victory.

The contest will last but a few short weeks and NOW is the time to show your colors!

GOLF GOSSIP AND NEWS OF THE LINKS

Monday morning at 8 o'clock, the national annual championship of the United States starts at the Apawamis Club at Rye, New York. The first pair, S. H. Guss, man of the Shawnee Club, will play with T. G. Stevenson of Myopia, will tee off the first tee at 8 o'clock. The ninety-six duels remaining will leave on four minute intervals after that, so that the last pair does not get away until 2:05 p. m.

The Bone-Burn Country Club holds its qualifying round Saturday for the club championship. Although many of their best players are visiting the national, there are enough of them left to make the championship all that it has been in the past years, and then some.

The ruling of the U. S. G. A. was disastrous to a certain prominent football coach's application for an austere's emblem. It seems that a professional in coaching games may not be allowed to play on an amateur. It is believed that the remuneration for coaching in this case is enough to cause the enthusiast to take the matter on a joke.

Yale golfers showed their prowess in the Intercollegiate, this year, winning the team contests. The individual championship now on, found three out of the first four and five out of the last qualifying round Yale players. Notwithstanding this fact, Allen Seckel of Princeton, the modern amateur champion, is capable of handling anyone of them, and plays "Vardon and the Black" should win the individual championship from Yale this year. Hunter of Yale won the title at the Essex County Club last year.

Without doubt Anderson's trip abroad this year advanced his style and ability a great deal. His greatest acquisition is his now gradual defeat of a chronic nervousness that has been a great detriment for him in former years. He now loses on a long shot philosophically, and plays each hole for all there is in it, apparently not caring a rap whether he wins or loses. He is particularly improved in the putting game. "Jerry" can't win on well in the long run.

In the semi-finals of the Metropolitan championship at the Essex County club Tom Stevenson lost to W. Rotan, after he had won 2 up with 3 to go. The reason for this unlucky streak has been, however, the coaching of Stevenson's brother Harold, who on playing the long thirteenth hole at dusk, a deer apparently bewildered as to where he should run, scampered across the links, cleared a wide brook and was off uphill through 5 acres of pines.

The Fall season is more than on for golf, for practically every club in the State has some tournament scheduled or Saturdays from now until the middle of October. The long waiting list at clubs longer than ever before, are indications of the sports popularity.

BOXING BOARD AFTER GARDEN

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Pugilistic circles report that the State Boxing Commission might recommend the revocation of the license of the Madison Square A. C. at the next meeting of the board, which will probably be filled.

The commission is hampered in its work by the resignation of James E. Sullivan, which not only depleted the organization but removed the chairman.

Lieutenant-Governor Thomas A. O'Neil, who has charge the investigation of the affairs of the Madison Square A. C., which stages the Wells-Brown and the Langford-Lodell bouts, insists declares that the club has not got a square deal from the law, and that it has been guilty of allowing special privileges.

Charges are also made by the fire department that safeguarding regulations are ignored.

FALL RIVER WILL HAVE POLO TEAM

FALL RIVER, Sept. 8.—The question of whether there will be roller polo in Fall River the coming season has been definitely settled and Fall River will be in the competition. It is expected that the season will open about October 15. The salary limit for the season will be $1,800. The league will comprise the same teams that was in the race last year, with the addition of Worcester.

JOHNNY MEDIUM IS WINNER OF BIG RACE

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Johnnie Medium, owned by F. P. Lang of Barton, Vt., won the money in the $10,000 trotting handicap here today in the free-for-all run off by the Clinton Agricultural Society on the program originally started from a scratch in a field of twelve.

TO RACE AT BUFFALO.

HUNTINGTON, L. I., Sept. 9.—The Long Island polo team, Uncle IV., winner of the international power boat cup, will be shipped to-day to Buffalo, where she will take part in a series of events.

Monday Morning at 8 o'clock, the national annual championship of the United States starts at the Apawamis Club at Rye, New York. The first pair, S. H. Guss, man of the Shawnee Club will play with T. NO BIDS FOR PAPKE-KELLY

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—The importance of the Wolgast-Packey fight evidently has put the rest of the fight promoters hereabouts into a state of slumber.

Until that match was closed, Kenosha, Racine, Milwaukee and several other points where the game is permitted were searching the country over for a good card, but apparently in vain.

Billy Papke was a much sought fighter, but Billy was in other parts and he could not be secured. Then came the clinching of the Milwaukee fight and all activity for other contests stopped.

Billy Papke is resting peacefully at his home in Kewanee and Hugo Kelly is at his country home in Antioch, both good cards and the best middleweights in the game today.

Yet no club is making the slightest semblance of a move to sign the pair for a future date.

That the Wolgast-McFarland fight is by far the most important battle that could be arranged just now is certain, but that match is not far off and the fans will look forward to more glove contests after the lightweight go is decided.

Middleweights Draw Well.

It will be remembered that Papke and Kelly fought in Milwaukee a few years ago and the gate ran over $17,000. No such gate would greet the men were they to get together again, but aside from this Wolgast-Packey battle, none around here at the present time, that is big men concerned, would draw as well, and Barlow, Kenosha and even Milwaukee are overlooking a betting card in these two.

Papke is willing to sign at once, as is Kelly, though neither wants to get into the ring before thirty days. Kelly is at his best now, his long rest putting him in grand shape. Papke is within close range of being in condition and says he will be at his best if matched.

Ordinarily it would be hard to get men of this calibre together, for Papke usually holds out for a guarantee, but this time he is ready to take a chance with the club. Thirty-five per cent, is all he asks. And Kelly is also ready to gamble, so there ought to be no trouble in closing the bout. The fans know that such a battle would bring them from all over and there would be no trouble in packing a house.

Brown in Field.

And while the field holds out these two middleweights as the strongest cards, that Greek wild man, George "Knockout" Brown is open to take on either. He says he will sign with Papke or Kelly any minute he can secure himself and that he will make a side wager with either. Brown is not a clever fighter, but his willingness, his aggressive style and his terrific hitting make him a card the club signing him with either of the other two cracks could not fare badly. Brown has a big Greek following and his friends are loyal supporters.

FRANK MANTELL TO MEET LEO HOUCK

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Frank Mantell and Leo Houck, two of the middleweights who have been trying to get a clash on the middleweight championship, have been matched to meet in a ten-round battle at the National Athletic Club in this city on September 21. The conditions of the match call for each boy to weigh in at the ringside at 3 o'clock on the day of the fight. Houck has a long list of ring victories to his credit, and he claims wins over Harry Lewis and Frank Klaus. Mantell has shown great improvement in his fighting ability in the last six months, and declares that he will be victory over Houck. Both men have begun training for the contest.

RAIN BRINGS RACES TO PREMATURE END

HARTFORD, Ct., Sept. 9.—The last day of racing at the fair in this city was called off early this morning on account of the condition of the track at Charter Oak Park. The heavy rains put the course out of commission. The Nutmeg handicap, which was to have been run today, could not be staged, to the sorrow of the thousands of horsemen who had packed the grandstand.

JACK FITZGERALD WINS FROM M'MAHON

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 9.—Jack Fitzgerald, from Scranton, Pa., a Summer resident at Atlantic City, fought a great bout against Tom McMahon of New Castle, who was his superior in weight, in an exchange of avoirdupois, and only lost out by a hair's line, at the Monte A. C. last night.

PRESIDENT TRACEY SAYS LEAGUE CAN'T ESCAPE COLLAPSE

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 9.—According to President Tracey of the Connecticut Baseball League, that organization can not escape collapse. He said last night that not even Ban Johnson could save it from disruption. He also said he resigned and will quit at the annual meeting in October. He said: "Each manager has failure to blame for the general welfare to give him more time to look out for his own pocket. The president's decisions are laughed at. The managers squeal like stuck pigs at adverse decisions by the league president. The fights and petty squabbles of the managers are nauseating."

The league is closing the most disastrous season in its history, even New Haven, the largest city, transferring games.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—The Red Sox will make their farewell appearance of the 1911 season in this city today. We are sorry to see them go, for the Athletics, while they have a good lead and there is little chance that they will lose it, could improve their standing a great deal if the Red Sox carried a little longer.

The Sox and Athletics will meet for the last time this season, as the Philadelphia team are not down on the schedule to visit the Hub again. Both teams are out for the game today, and if past performances count for anything the Athletics already have the game tucked away under their pillows.

Buck O'Brien, a Brockton boy, who was taken on the Spring trip with the Red Sox, but later turned over to the Denver team, reported to the Sox yesterday and will work against the Athletics today. Kraus will endeavor to take another fall of the fast slipping Sox.

WATER TOO ROUGH FOR ENGLISH BOAT

HUNTINGTON, L. I., Sept. 9.—Proposals to have the British hydroplanes Pioneer and Maple Leaf make a speed trial over a mile course here Saturday came to naught when the water in the bay grew too rough for them. They were hauled for shipment at 11 had been announced that the Pioneer would go to Buffalo to-day, but the plan was later abandoned.

GEORGE MULLIN MAY BE TRADED FOR LORD

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 9.—The baseball gossips here are greatly excited over what they believe to be the possibility of a trade of George Mullin, disgusted pitcher to the White Sox. They have had up a deal whereby Detroit would get Harry Lord in exchange for Mullin and George Moriarty.

When asked about the chances for such a deal to go through Manager Duffy said he would never consider it "unless Detroit would throw in a few bad balls." The White Sox manager confessed he would be willing to take a chance that Mullin is not all in as a pitcher. No suggestion that involves Lord would be entertained for a minute, however, and it is not believed that Navin would be willing to part with the veteran twirler for any player Comiskey would be willing to give for Lord.

A cash deal is unlikely, as the local club thinks it can strengthen its infield to the disposition of Mullin, who is anxious to get away and say Comiskeyites he would like to pitch for the White Sox.

Murphy and Pal Moore Match For Feature Bout at Armory

By JACK CONWAY.

Tommy Murphy of New York and Pal Moore of Philadelphia will meet in the wind-up of next Tuesday night's boxing show at the Armory A. A. These fast boys will clash in a twelve-round bout which is likely to prove one of the most entertaining of the local season.

The semi-windup will be between Joe Eagan and Young Jasper, both of Boston, and is slated to go eight rounds.

Other bouts on the card are a six-round encounter between two heavies, Joe Smith of Chelsea and Arthur Northrop of the U. S. Battleship New Jersey, and a six-round go between Eddie Keres of Lynn and Harold Edson of Weymouth.

In less than a week, Ad Wolgast and Packey McFarland, two of the greatest lightweights in the world, will clash in Milwaukee to settle the long drawn argument as to which is the better man.

The fight is arousing intense enthusiasm in sporting circles and is likely to draw a record crowd, judging from the advance sale of tickets. Many of the fans will hit the road for the dapper Cadillac farmer to bring home a victory, but there will also be many who will back Packey with big bunches of the long green.

Started in Early.

This is the greatest chance McFarland has yet had to win fame. Opportunity is knocking at his door. The stockyards champion is only twenty-two years of age and has yet to meet defeat in the ring. He has met and defeated some of the best men in the lightweight class.

Packey started out after fame and glory in 1904 at the age of sixteen. The first year Packey fought six battles and won them all by the K. O. route.

The following year the little stockyard whirlwind engaged in twelve swat fests and won all in easy fashion.

Wolgast is Confident.

The Windy City scrapper then started after bigger game and inside of a year he took on a national reputation as a mit niher. All the fighters in the Middle West began to give Packey a wide berth.

After defeating such stars as Young Butte, Freddie Welsh, Kid Goodwin and Cyclone Johnny Thompson, McFarland started on the trail of Battling Nelson but the Dane ignored the challenge.

When Wolgast won the title from the Battler, Packey started on the trail of the Cadiline farmer, and after a long chase got Ad to sign articles for the present fight.

Wolgast is confident of stopping McFarland in ten rounds. Ad was never accused of being a showy boxer, but his wonderful record during the past eight months, in which time he has bowled over every challenger of note with the exception of Knockout Brown, causes us to have a wholesome respect for Tom Jones' protege.

Wolgast is one of the greatest lightweights of modern times. He is as strong as Nelson ever was, and besides this he is a fair hitter. Wolgast is also improving his style every day and should soon have a rattling fine defence.

There is one thing which causes us to favor Wolgast's chances for retaining his crown for some years to come and that is the fact that he has never been forced to take many hard beatings.

It often happens that a fighter is able to withstand the stand up under terrific punishment and finally win out. In a few days the boxer may appear as well as ever, but there was in his life. But after he has taken several beatings of this sort he begins to fall and in a short while he is a physical wreck. That is why many knights of the roped area have a sorrowful ending.

Next Friday's fight will be a battle between a master of every wrinkle of scientific boxing and a great fighting machine of skill should be a pretty interesting affair from the ground that the experts will all be found on hand with the chances in favor of Wolgast.

While McFarland is trying to vanquish Wolgast, Chief Morris and Jim Flynn will be engaging in a little swat fest in Madison Square Garden.

Morris has been doing plenty of training for the bout, and says that he will give "Pueblo Jim" a severe drubbing, but this has yet to be seen with a little grin of salt.

Jim is a hard puncher and possessed of a great amount of ring craft. If he shows the same form that he did in his fight with Al Kaufman, he will be knocked for the big Californian out in the tenth round. It will be back to the clou chus cars for Carlo.

But if Flynn has gone back since his fight with Kaufman and Morris shows some of the stuff that he is toiling so about, we may have another white fighter who can do something else besides talk.

The next meeting of the Woburn Athletic Association will be held at Lyceum Hall on Monday evening, September 11, and the program of events has all the earmarks of a fine drawing card. Manager Bert Clancy and Matchmaker Murray of the association have spared some of the best boxers around Boston for a fistic appearance in the roped arena of the Woburn club.

The last show at the leather city was one of the best and most exciting ever staged in the Boston suburbs, and was packed to the rafters with a record crowd present.

The finals between Irish Paddy Callahan of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Gilbert Gallant of Chelsea will be remembered for a long time by those that saw the bout.

For the bouts Monday the club has again contrived to get Callahan in the finals, matched this time with Johnny Gaffney, a New Bedford boxer.

The semi-finals will be between Mickey Brown of Malden and Young Sadean of Cambridge.

The preliminaries will be between Young DuBois of Wakefield and Young Barring ton of Charlestown.

Manager Block of Frankie DuBois, has accepted the challenge of Kid Lee of Chelsea. DuBois now claims the 105-pound championship by his victory over Paddy Murphy at the Armory Tuesday. He is willing to meet Kid Lee at 110 pounds for a side bet of $50.

THE RULES.

Mail your daffydils to the Daffydil Editor, Boston AMERICAN, P. O. Box 8047 Boston, Mass.

Write on one side of the paper only. Sign your full name and address.

The best daffydils sent in during the week, up to Thursday, will be published in the Sunday AMERICAN.

The writers of the daffydils published in the Sunday AMERICAN will be awarded prizes.

Every daffydil published in the Sunday AMERICAN will draw a prize, either cash or book.

Two sample daffydils will be published each weekday. But those printed as samples in the daily AMERICAN will not necessarily win prizes. Only those selected in the Sunday AMERICAN will be prize winners.

BEDELVIA WINS AT HILLSGROVE TRACK

HILLSGROVE, R. I., Sept. 9.—Three light harness races were on the card for governor's day at the State fair yesterday and some spirited finishes occurred, with the 2:12 pace the feature event. A field of six horses faced Starter Biggs for the word with Abrefe, nominated by Percy Burnham of Kingston, Ont., the favorite. The chestnut gelding paced a splendid race, coming from behind in the stretch in each heat and nosing out Keilarville lad and Fred W., winning the race. The fight for place was keen, with Gillies on the long end.

Henry Tiers of Readville, Mass., again drove a winner when he piloted Bedelia to victory in the 2:16 trot, the mare lowering her mark to 2:16¼, one second faster than the record taken on Labor day, when she captured the 2:22 trotting stake, worth $1,000. J. J. Crowley of Readville, won the place in a hot three-cornered battle with Kaldee.

There were but two starters in the 2:22 pace, 3-year-old trot, and Charlie Lassl of Whitesville, Mass., won the event in straight heats with Young Mac. Hedi. The last was second with his Todd filly, Ella F.

FINAL GAME WILL BE PLAYED SUNDAY

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 9.—The championship of the Connecticut League will probably be decided on the extra day, Sunday, which was recently added to the schedule of the league by vote of the directors. Today the leaders, with but two more days of the season to play, are but half a game apart. Bridgeport leads with a percent. of .614, with Springfield second with .610. The two leaders meet here Sunday, on the last day of the season. On the result of that game it is likely that the championship will depend.

Muldoon Ridicules Idea That Match Was a Fake

By WILLIAM MULDOON.

World's foremost conditioner of men and former champion wrestler.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The great wrestling contest for the championship of the world is over, and usually such affairs are allowed to pass without comment when the reports of the results are given to the world.

But in this case I think there should be something more said upon the subject, particularly so as the newspapers gave the result so much room and the people showed such great interest, as evidenced by the large attendance.

I found among the people of Chicago, the day following the match, a great deal of interest. People were talking about it on the Michigan boulevard, on the cross streets, in the business offices, and on my journey from Chicago to this city I heard the subject brought up frequently on the train. Many were dissatisfied. And why? That's the question.

The match was perfectly honest and decided beyond the shadow of a doubt that the American, Gotch, was the champion and far superior to Hackenschmidt in his athletic ability, courage, good judgment and staying qualities—and this is what the match was for, to bring about that decision.

There seems to be a great deal of talk about fakes. Bippodromes, fakes, etc.

A fake is where either one or the other of the men in the match are not well known to be so by the managers and by the opposing party. The fake is where they put up purely for the gate money, there being nothing to it.

A Bippodrome is where two equally good men pre-arrange the result of the contest and keep their agreement, the one who has agreed to lose being defeated.

A farce would be two wrestlers giving an exhibition, neither one trying to win a fall.

Barney this contest was not any of these.

The best man won and did it in so quick and decisive a manner as possible.

No Longer Splendid Athlete.

Hackenschmidt attempted to profit by his past experience with Gotch and had put forth his best effort to be in proper condition; but, as a matter of fact, he is no longer the splendid athlete that he was three years ago.

There is no question about his ability as a wrestler—he has appeared before us as such for more than a half of people, if not more, all over the world—people that had good money to go to see him, and certainly he could not have fooled everybody. He must have been a remarkable man. But he has undoubtedly gone back.

He will never again be as good as he was. In other words, he is on the toboggan slide, and it will be useless for him to attempt to get back.

It is useless for Gotch to censure him too severely now that he is on the decline.

Let us consider what he has done that we should censure him for those acts. His style of wrestling had always been Graeco-Roman, which bars holds below the waist and no tripping allowed.

Gotch's style was catch-as-catch-can holds and trips allowed.

Finding no one else to compete with him he arranged to take up the more modern methods of wrestling—catch-as-catch-can—an entirely different proposition, that he could not possibly excel or stand up as the Graeco-Roman style, for it is perfectly natural for men to come to close grips together to try and throw one another to the ground that they will catch for legs or endeavor to trip each other.

Hackenschmidt's mistake rested in making an attempt to try for the championship at this style, which was not his, for the people do not know enough about wrestling to tell the difference.

After his first experience with Gotch he should have acknowledged his defeat and not try to lead his friends and admirers to believe that he was an expert at that style of wrestling. For that I censure him.

He knew perfectly well the danger of getting the so-called toe hold. He had had his experience in that, and he should have shown better courage, and made a better bluff to avoid the possibility of that one particular hold. He did not do the best he could to escape that hold, and that is why I censure him for losing the last fall in this contest.

Now, let us see what the "toe hold" means. Ordinarily one would think when another come to the conclusion that by a "toe hold" is meant one wrestler getting the other by the toe and twisting the foot and doing something to it—but what, the layman does not know. But that is not the case. The "toe hold" means this: One opponent is brought to his hands and knees on the mat, or perhaps flat on his face. Then the other one takes advantage to keep well back and hold him down the best he can. He is looking for an opportunity to spring to his feet, and you will observe that he never gives him what would be to your advantage before he makes that spring.

You must also look out that he does not catch you with a trip and a roll, which would bring you under him.

Now you are on your hands and knees. Your opponent is above you. He grabs your foot from behind—not your toe, but your FOOT—down close to your toes. He jerks your leg up and pulls it until your heel is upon the back of your thigh. His hold is very close to your toes, and he is crushing that part of your foot with his grip. The grip alone is sufficient to injure you, but that is not all.

The leg is pressed up and held tightly against your thigh, close up to your body. A few that position cuts off all circulation and leaves you helpless.

If you make an attempt to spring or to escape, your opponent pulls harder on your foot and crushes harder with his grip, and the leg becomes numb. The leg can not go any further, but the foot can be pulled further, and in doing so some of the many ligaments and sinews in the ankle and foot become cracked and strained.

It does not require the strength of a powerful wrestler to do this. Any ordinary person could break and strain the ankle and instep.

Can't Really Blame Hack.

You cannot escape. Your are fastened there. One inch more and you are crippled for six months or a year, or maybe for life.

Now, with a skilful and powerful wrestler like Gotch, your chance of escape is not one in a thousand after the lock is once set.

Your only chance was to keep your self loose and be ready for the first trip.

Now, imagine yourself in that position, with the lock set, and you are given your choice. Would you voluntarily become a cripple, would you take that desperate chance to escape, or would you surrender? That was the position that Hackenschmidt was in when he gave to the second and final fall of the match.

Now, you may say: "Well, I would die before I'd give in." It is easy enough to say that. But you wouldn't do it. The chances are you would surrender, or take the last chance—that of an effort to escape.

Under the circumstances, was Hackenschmidt—an experienced wrestler, knowing his opponent as well as he did—to blame for his defeat?

Without doubt, Hackenschmidt has had his best day.

TY COBB WINS FROM POWERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—A free-for-all fight featured the bout between Eddie Powers and Ty Cobb at the Brighton Beach A. C. Coney Island, last night. The impromptu melee occurred in the third round, after Powers had been floored for the count with a terrific right smash to the jaw. Powers's handlers did the customary of sprinkling water on their charge. Cobb's seconds objected to this process ing and insisted that the referee disqualify Powers for his seconds' actions.

Powers gamely resumed fighting after the knockdown, but his handlers kept showering him with water. Cobb's seconds finally watched the opposing camp, and when Powers's seconds refused to accede to their demands the Cobb faction marched over to Powers's corner and engaged in a free-for-all battle. Several of the spectators took a hand in the mixup, and a special officer and a policeman had to be called in to stop the fight for the benefit of the crowd.

The Powers-Cobb affair was halted for about five minutes between the third and fourth rounds. When hostilities were resumed Cobb sent Powers to the canvas with a right smash. Powers fought hard all the way after that until the completion of the ten rounds, but Cobb was too fast and had a shade the better of his foes, and was entitled to the award.

EDDIE MURPHY BEATS McHENRY

RACINE, Wis., Sept. 9.—Eddie Murphy, the Boston lightweight, had little trouble in defeating Jack McHenry, a sparring partner of Packey McFarland, last night. The local fans who had seen McHenry work out with McFarland for the past week, figured that he had a chance with Boy Boscobian, but he didn't materialize.

The work of Murphy was a big surprise, and from the third round on the Boston boy had McHenry at his mercy. The crowd called upon Referee Santry to stop the fight time and time again, but he refused.

What Does Your Aura Reveal?

This New Telltale Circumambient Medium May Disclose All Your Pet Conceits

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

THE joy in a joke on Man is uncertain, for the reason that Man is so covered with the thick coating of conceit, the joke never penetrates to his consciousness. It is like shooting an arrow at a rock wall.

Science shot an arrow at this rock wall in a recent discovery of Dr. Walker J. Kilner, for years at the head of the X-ray work in London's greatest hospital, but the rock wall will never find it out, and it is this rock wall of assurance and self-conceit with which Man surrounds himself that delays his education.

Dr Kilner discovered the aura, a sort of halo that deals down from the head and outlines the entire body. You may not know it, but you have one; every one has one, and this aura tells to the scientist many things the person it envelops would have kept secret. It tells the age, the temperament and the physical condition by its shape and color, and its size denotes the intellect.

"Very small auras," said Dr. Kilner, "indicate very small intellects, and the aura of woman is invariably larger than the aura of man. The smallest of auras I have seen attend the body of man.

"It will avail nothing to tell the man who reads that statement to read it again. The point to the discovery, that women have greater intellects than men, could never get through that rock wall. It is a joke on him, his father, his grandfather and all his forefathers, but they will never know it. They are blind to all discoveries of a woman's superiority to man, and this blindness is a sort of heirloom, which every father had handed down to his son.

"Many years ago, when men and women dwelt in caves, a man swung his club through the air and declared he was the superior being, and as he had the superior brute strength, the women cowered a little lower in their corners of the cave and made no dispute.

Some thousands of years later, man discovered that he had a brain, and he devoted much time to its development while the women of his family did the work in the fields, and he again made the claim of superiority, and the women, stupefied by generations of burden-bearing, didn't know enough to doubt him.

Some haven't learned enough to doubt him yet, and in this day and generation look to man as the superior sex; they are the direct descendants of the woman who cowered in the cave, the true daughters of the woman who works like a dumb brute in the field.

It is the woman who looks dumbly at man, seeing in him a glorified being who will carry all the problems of life to a successful solution, who will receive the greatest benefit from this discovery of Dr. Kilner.

With a little chemical screen before her eyes she will look at the man whom she thought a giant of intellect, and see an aura so small it wouldn't make a fising for a pigmy's hat.

She will see as he really is the man who thought he was so great his very weight make the Lord an overcoat. She will discover with this chemical screen that if she trusts her future interest and her progress to a man with an aura so small he couldn't sit down in it without tearing it she is going back to the plough in the fields.

She will discover by using her chemical screen from day to day and making comparisons that man's aura is shrinking like a flannel union suit, and woman's aura is growing larger.

There are also many surprising discoveries awaiting her regarding a man's temperament, his age and his physical condition, not one of which he would have her know if he could prevent.

When chemical screens become as common articles of merchandise as eyeglasses or lorgnettes, the education of the woman who trusts the affairs of the nation and home blindly to man, because he is man, will be materially hastened.

PART ONE—(Continued)

HER hungry eyes rushed back and forth along the second sheet which Mc-Kinnon had thrust into her hand:

Can get PRINCETON . . . Semo- one from God's country . . . Must hurry. Yes, president and cabinet safe. Seven hundred crowded in palace yards and water shut off. Tell PRINCETON not to wait to land guns. Remember Baracoa switch bridge is unlock. . . . Build against switchboard. . . . Get me south of Boston again—hurry—use—power dy- ing—hurry.

That was the end of the message.

"But the PRINCETON!" gasped the woman. "If you can't get the PRINCE- TON!"—

"Well—wait—I'm getting her," answered the man, bent low over his re- sponder, as though the sense of appeal- to ware vision and not sight. "They've been waiting for me to relay. They've been——"

He left the speech unended, for he was busy sending his spark cannonading across its gap.

He kept up that cannonading until it seemed to the watching woman that it was never going to end. Then he switched off and listened again, and again cannonad- ed his answer.

Got the Princeton

Then he dropped wearily into his chair, wiped the sweat from his face and re- membered that he was not alone. He looked up at the woman with a strange- ly transfiguring smile on his sweat-stained face.

"It's over," he said, with the simplicity of utter weariness.

"You've got them? the Princeton?" she asked.

"I've got them!"

She put out her two hands to him. It was meant as an impersonal gesture of gratitude, and he knew it as he took them in his. But there seemed something re- vivifying and revital in the sweat from his face, and remembered that mere con- tact with them, something that brought the hope and joy of life back to his tired body. He laughed aloud.

"I gave them what they were aching for! They were lying there steaming and baking and fretting for the very one word I sent on to them."

"Then they'll come?"

"Come! Yes, they'll come! They've been lying there whimpering to get up as he Brigand, just like a rat-terrier whimp- ering to get at a kitten."

He was silent for a moment, as his mind pictured the sudden change, so many miles away, that was flashing and thrill- ing through all the great gray bulk of that whitened battleship of the Princeton, clanging, the orders being given, the fur- naces being stoked, the decks being cleared of all but ever and done before we can help them. And we will be here at the mercy of Ganley!"

She failed to impart any shred of her terror to the listening operator.

"Yes," he said, with abstracted and studious eyes, "that is the one thing that worries me."

"But Ganley can do anything, once we're at Puerto Locombia. This ship and every- thing it carries will be under his thumb!"

"Yes. That is still our problem—we're still got that bridge to cross," he replied.

"Yet I think we can cross it, when the times comes."

"But how?" she demanded.

"By not having this ship remain at Puerto Locombia, once Ganley's put ashore," was his answer.

"Then in what way could we still help Guarigui—in time?" was her forlorn and helpless query.

"We've got to make a way!" he told her, with his grim yet assuring smile.

Into the Roadstead

It was eight hours later that the La- mination made her way under half-speed into the roadstead at Puerto Locombia.

She drifted guardedly in over shoals of translucent verdancy, with her scarf churning the lettuce-green waters into coiling and copper-as-tinted eddies.

A long iron pier ran out into this green- watered roadstead, its trestles spanned by the single track of a narrow-gauge railway. On either side of the concrete breakwater that lipped the sea-edge of the town itself stretched away two curves of white sand with their intermittently whirling surf. Then came scattering clumps of lonely palms, then a lower mist- hung reast of cane and mangrove and wooded hinterland.

Behind the concreted crescent of shore- line, to which the sanctioned pier seemed like an arrow set in a drawn bow, stood irregular lines of thatched huts, of mud and bamboo wattle, crowding on narrow streets that sloped to the sea-edge be- hind sidewalks no wider than a wall-top.

Still nearer ranged the more substan- tial part of the town, the half-a-n overched buildings of corrugated iron and tin, the one-story, open-front shops, with red tile roofs, the unbuilding rectangular lodges and the austere and gloomy government buildings.

Over the latter drooped strange flags of yellow and red and blue.

On the higher ground to the right can- rosty streets lined with pink and yellow- tinted house walls of stucco, with heavy Spanish shutters and terra-cotta roof- tiles.

Along the fringe of lower ground to the extreme left stood irregular rows of wattled huts, raised the height of a man from the "sand-diggers" and the miasmal tundra under them, looking like lines of patient herons as they balanced on their rotting palmwood stilts.

Beyond the town, leading into the dis- ty rising ground of the southwest, wound a road of shell and limestone, leaving a crooked scar of white against the black- ness of the lowlands through which it crept.

Close in by the concrete breakwater lay the ribs and spars of a wrecked schooner, mysteriously adding to the atmosphere of gloom and neglect. On a side track curv- ing from the pier-end stood a dismantled train of cars, so small that they looked like a child's toys. Nearby lay a derailed locomotive, brown with rust, strangely pa- thetic in its attitude of resigned helpless- ness.

Thirty paces from this stood the totter- ing remains of a corrugated-iron ware- house, its fallen roof and twisted wall- plates showing plainly enough that it had been blown up by either Ulloa or the in- surgents.

"YONDER she comes!" said a tall, lank man, who was sitting on a seat in the shade of the station platform.

"Yonder who comes?" asked a stout, good natured-looking man, who sat near him.

"The train we've been waiting for over half an hour," said the first speaker.

"Why do you say 'Yonder she comes?'" asked the other.

"Well, that's the customary way of speaking of a train, isn't it. And custom is what fixes things. Everybody says 'Yon- der she comes' in speaking of a train's ap- proach."

"Well, I insist you should have said 'Yonder he comes'," said the stout man.

"Oh, pshaw! Nobody ever says 'he' in speaking of a train," returned the lean man.

"Well, I'll agree to leave it to the sta- tion master, and see if it wouldn't have been better for you to say 'Yonder he comes'," added the stout man.

When they had found the station master the stout man asked:

"What is the sex of the train coming into the station?"

"It's a mail train," answered he.

And the lean man stayed to hear no more.

How to Get Rid of Pimples

It is truly remarkable how Cudum, the new remedy, causes pimples to disappear. Bad cases are frequently helped in a week, and sometimes even sooner. Cudum causes pimples to dry up and fall off, leaving the skin as soft and smooth as a baby's. Pimples are a disease of the skin, and are not caused by bad blood, as many people suppose. Cudum helps these annoying and disfiguring facial blemishes be- cause it can be applied direct to the trouble, and its soothing, antiseptic and healing powers stop the itching at once. Cudum is equally good for rash, blotches, scaly skin, chaflngs, eczema, sores, eruptions, acne, psoriasis, etc. 10c and 25c per box. At all druggists.

GET A FRIEND TO INTRODUCE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Some time ago, after attending a performance, I met a young woman of the same age as myself. We conversed for some time, and at the end of the performance I had a slight of her. Last week she passed me on the street and greeted me with a smile.

Kindly advise me which would be more proper—to discover her address by following her home, or talking to her, which I haven't done since the performance? R. H. S.

THERE is no way. I am sorry to say, you may become acquainted with the young woman until you have been intro- duced by a mutual friend.

If this has been done, the next time you meet her ask her permission to call, and tell her you do not know her address.

Do not try to discover it by following her home. This would not be dignified in you or fair to her.

FOLLOW YOUR PARENTS

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am keeping company with a young man, and am deeply in love with him. But I will not listen to the plea of my people to leave him.

He calls only once or twice a week. I have other admirers, but never have enjoyed myself so much as when in his company.

He has asked me to elope, but I refused. He gave me a beautiful diamond ring.

What should I do?

MISS BROOKLINE

YOUR parents, undoubtedly, have some very good reason for wishing you to give up the young man. Either you are too young or they feel that he is not worthy of you.

However, I would advise you to do as your parents tell you. Time will solve matters if your love is sincere. Remember that unhappiness would follow the course he suggests.

Follow the dictates of your conscience, when you have already begun to do, by refusing to elope with him. If he wishes you to bow him, he must calle your parents' approval and if his conduct hence- forth, is irreproachable, he will be able to triumph.

COULDN'T BE DONE

He entered the restaurant and ordered a portion of chicken. After waiting half an hour the hungry one called the waiter, saying:

"Look here! How long am I going to wait for that portion of chicken I or- dered?"

"Till somebody orders the other half," said the waiter. "We can't go out and kill half a fowl."

Desperate Desmond

Copyright, 1911, by the National News Association.

A Continued Picture Drama of Love and Hate, with a Thrill in Its Every Picture

Claude Delaire, hero, and Rosamond, beautiful sweetheart, now think they have Desmond, villain, in a tight place. Claude, comfortably standing on solid earth, is shooting deliberately at the arch-scoundrel, who is whirling around on the sail of a windmill. The odds appear unfair, but—

Desmond and his black-faced and black-hearted side-de-camp, Gomgotz, cannot shoot very well while whirling around on the sails of the windmill. The honest miller naturally dislikes to see a moneyed visitor using his motive power, and accordingly is taking shots at Desmond.

You never can dope an active-minded scoundrel, observe here how Desmond has thrown up both hands and is apparently making an abject surrender. Claude falls for this, but his experienced ear at once knows that this is a mere ruse, in fact, a joke raw enough for the boxing commission.

And now see our villain running like a startled hare. (By the bye, ever see a startled hare? No? Of course not; it runs too fast to be seen.) Desmond has planned to be Gomez but explodes the mill while he is doing the fake surrender act, and now the villain flees, while no man chases him.

Ooh! What an awful difference an explosion makes—especially when the explosion takes place in flour. Look at the scene our artist has drawn—nothing but a bedazzlingunishable shower of flour. Naturally, Desmond, professional villain, will escape in the confusion thus created.

The last picture in this series is a peach. Remember the Christmas cards of your childhood? All the snow and frosty effects on them? Well, they had nothing on the effect you see above. Flour closely resembles snow in color, anyway, and so Desmond and Rosamond may pass as snow babies. See to-morrow's pictures.

The Sitting Army

The Horde of the Folded Hands More Costly to a Nation Than Its Soldiery

By THOMAS TAPPER

THE little neighbor and the postmaster had just finished a game of checkers when old Silas Minot came bustling into Lawson's grocery store.

"Boys," he exclaimed in an excited way, "I've got a great and grand idea. It's an inspiration!"

"Raising doves of peace, Silas?"

"Now see, you listen to me and you'll hear something that will make your bosom swell with pride. This is a new idea. Thought it all out by myself. The newspapers haven't got it yet."

"Well, ease your mind, Silas," said the postmaster, "what's it all about?"

HOW TO MAKE SPLENDID EGG CHOWDER.

Mr. Jerome K. Jerome is very fond of his charming wife's delicious recipes, one of which is egg chowder. This recipe will be printed

IN SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

"Progress of Society. Nothing less. Progress of——"

"I'm progressing, Silas," said the little neighbor. "I'm progressing from your present society to do my evening chores. Yours all done, Silas?"

"Not yet. What's the hurry? You just stop a minute and listen to me."

A Grand Idea

Silas seated himself on the counter and began:

"Boys, if I had an education I'd write this down for the good of suffering humanity. I'm the head idea of the standing armies of the world, hey? There's lots of them. They're expensive, keep men out of work and raise prices like the mischief. But still, I suppose we've got to have them.

"Well, I've got the grand idea that the standing armies are not the curse of the world. Bots—it's the sitting army that is the ruination of nations. When I was down in New York, I saw hundreds and perhaps thousands of able-bodied men sitting in the park all day. It's the same everywhere. They're the ruination of us. If every one of these able-bodied fellow-citizens was earning $1.65 a day—that is fair pay——

"Better hop off the counter and take a standing position, hadn't you Silas. Heels together, shoulders back, ribs forward."

"Son, when you get a chance to hear a sublime idea like this one of mine, you might to keep serious. I've been thinking hard on this. Suppose a man sits in a park in good weather, say a hundred days a year, at $1.65, which is fair pay, there's a whole lot of money he hasn't got. Just test it by sitting around. You multiply that by every sitter in the United States of America and you could pay the national debt in no time. Pay the whole dum thing, spot cash."

"The parks down in New York are terrible things," said the little neighbor.

"Now, son, you're beginning to catch my idea. They're the making of more men than there are in the army and navy. They're women's s——"

A Natural Figure

"Counter in a grocery, hey Silas?"

"What are you driving at, son?"

"Silas," said the little neighbor, "I'm a natural sort of figure. Do big sums right in my head. For example: You've been coming here, perching on the counter for about forty years. Say three hours a day, which is putting it mild. And days a hundred days a year. Three times three hundred's nine hundred. Times forty is twelve thousand hours, at $1.65 a day which is fair pay, that amounts to, well, it's a lot of money."

"Son, you've got a fool mind. Here's a good idea—and you go meandering in your head about something else. Can't you catch the sublime idea I'm trying to——"

The door opened and Silas's wife thrust her head in.

"Silas Minn, you come home. The hens want their feed and the cow's got to be milked, and I want some kindling. You sit around as if you expected me to get an axe and go chopping my own firewood. You get moving toward home."

"Silas," said the little neighbor, "the sitting army beats the call and springs to its feet. It's a great and grand idea, Forward! March! And follow the bobs."

"Son, you'll hear from me again. You're no more fit to grasp the idea than——"

"Come on, Silas!" shouted his wife. "Can't you break away?"

"The call has come, Silas," persisted the little neighbor. "Be up and moving, curse of inaction. You said so yourself."

"Look here, Silas," shouted Lawson, "if you go throwing hints around the store like that I'll charge you for them."

English Hair Grower

American rights secured for New Drug CRYSTOLIS

Grows Hair an Inch Long in 30 Days —Stops Falling Hair, Dandruff and Itching Scalp—Restores Gray and Faded Hair to Natural Color and Brilliancy.

CUT OFF FREE COUPON AND MAIL TODAY

Here's good news for the man who vainly tries to affect a boy scout's locks. And, what is better still, good news for the woman whose hair is falling, whose locks are too scanty to properly pin up her false hair.

Good news for both men and women who find a handful of hair in their combs every morning, or men and women growing gray before their time.

Good news for all with dandruff, itching scalp, with dandruff, with any and all forms of hair and scalp troubles.

The Crystolis Laboratories, 138 8th Ave., Binghamton, N. Y., have received the exclusive American rights to Crystolis, their wonderful English hair treatment.

Crystolis is a household word in Europe, where it is acclaimed "The most marvelous scientific discovery for promoting hair growth." It has been lord medals at Paris and Brussels.

Mr. Kenyon, of Chicago, writes: "Without words of praise I want to say that I have been fortunate enough to test its remarkable qualities. Crystolis is the best thing for hair I have ever used in America for over a year now. Hundreds of men and women from every State continually call at my store to buy Crystolis."

Here is a statement of just a few of those who have tried—who have been convinced—and who will cause to the virtues of this marvelous preparation:

Mr. Kelly, of Memphis, bald for thirty years, says: "My head is now covered with hair nearly an inch long; friends simply astounded."

Mr. Horne, of Hutchinson, declares: "I lost my hair eighteen years ago. Have used less than one treatment. My head is now entirely covered with a thick growth of hair of natural color. No more dandruff—no more falling hair. It's simply wonderful."

Mr. Boyd, of Chicago, says: "My bald spot was as shiny as a peeled onion. It is now all covered with fine hair. The dandruff has disappeared."

Mr. Mooney, of Cleveland, declares: "Crystolis is the only thing which actually grew hair."

Mrs. Morris, of Philadelphia, writes, after only three weeks' use: "I can see new hair in plainly, and it is now a half-inch long."

Long Soft Hair Grows.

Now, don't be bothered with dandruff, falling hair, baldness. Crystolis will grow hair on your head. Mr. Hoffman, of York, writes: "My hair stopped falling the first week. No more dandruff—scalp and new hair coming in fast."

Mr. Arnold, of Cleveland, reports: "Itching scalp stopped the second day. Dandruff gone; no more falling hair."

Mrs. Rose, of Rock Island, writes: "Was almost bald after typhoid fever. Crystolis made my hair grow in thicker and longer than ever before."

Mr. Hall says: "I am now the proud possessor of a splendid head of hair, which I thought was gone forever. Words are inadequate to express my thanks to you for what Crystolis has done for me."

Mr. Miller says: "Crystolis has done all you claim for it. Have used it for dandruff, itching scalp, and falling hair, and it has proved a wonderful success."

Crystolis is sold by druggists everywhere. If your druggist cannot supply you, send $1.65 (the full price), so that you can prove every statement.

But the best way is to write, without risk of a penny, and let Crystolis tell for itself. Write to-day to the Crystolis Laboratories, 138 8th Ave., Binghamton, N. Y.

This invitation is open to bald-headed people, who wish to meet and women with falling hair, prematurely gray hair, dry scalp, brittle hair, stringy hair, thin hair, matted hair, dandruff, itching scalp, or sore scalp, or any and all forms of scalp and hair troubles. Also to men and women whose hair has already gone, but who want it back again. Write to-day to the Crystolis Laboratories, 138 8th Ave., Binghamton, N. Y. Write your name and address plainly.

Mrs. Taft as Home-Maker

By KATHERINE BUSBEY

From an article in September Number of Good Housekeeping.

VISUALIZE for a moment the family apartments in the White House as they have been arranged by Mrs. Taft. Once up that broad, crimson-carpeted stairway, at the foot of which soldiers blow a long fanfaronade of trumpets at the large receptions when ceremony reigns, you step into the private home of the Tafts. The corridor is quite as wide in this second story as the noble way on the lower floors, and Mrs. Taft has turned the west end of it into a family sitting room. It is so screened off that among its softened rugs, its easy chairs and window draperies, it appears exactly like the living room in any built-for-comfort home. The two most prominent furnishings are a baby-grand piano and a business-like desk. The piano, with the pile of music on the rack beside it, is the special property of Mrs. Taft, and the desk is allotted to her social secretary, Miss Letterman.

Along the front of the old fashioned mansion are Mrs. Taft's bedroom, a charming room done in light blue; her dressing room, charlie Taft's room, and Mrs. Taft's sitting room, one of the most interesting rooms in the White House. This, just over the blue room of the state apartments, is exactly the same octagonal shape, but instead of the conventional drawing room furniture, appraised by sightseers in the room beneath, it is an oriental hangout with all the seemingly carved teakwood chairs and tables and cabinets, wonderful Eastern fabrics for curtains and brilliant splashes of gold dragons on rich backgrounds, a screen of soft wistaria bloom, and wall panels of the tender grays of Japanese art; a gorgeous carved and inlaid exquisite piece of embroidery and Oriental pottery. Nowhere has Mrs. Taft's gift as a decorator found fuller and freer expression. These precious bits were collected by her all over the world.

Altogether, while there are many homes displaying more luxury of appointment in Washington, there are few where such taste is manifest and none where the household wheels move with less friction, nor is this due to the allowance of comfort Uncle Sam bestows on the occupants, for some of the White House administrations have been notable for their lack of home comforts and severity. It is due to the domestic genius of Mrs. Taft.

At Breakfast

Mrs. Taft gets up at half-past seven every morning and at half-past eight is in her sitting room ready for business. Two features distinguish the Taft breakfast table from that of other administrations. It has been the custom for many years that when any member of the President's family was late for breakfast, he would be escorted to the dining-room by a servant and duly announced. Mrs. Taft put a blue pencil through that regulation, declaring her children to understand that all the food over their books has been changed to the hospitality of the government mansion, their home life is the same and they need not be bound by diplomatic restrictions. The second feature is that each member of the family has his own silver cup appropriately engraved at his place.

When Mrs. Taft arises from breakfast she goes down into the basement to what is to her one of the most attractive rooms of the house. This is the flower room where all the flowers for the table and drawing rooms are prepared. The large ice-chest is stored with the choicest blossoms from the White House conservatories, and Mrs. Taft selects and directs the arrangement of every decoration and bouquet, from an elaborate centrepiece for the dinner table of many feet to the simplest affair sent every morning to the desk of the President.

The Recipes

But back to the day's work. You follow Mrs. Taft from the flower room to the elevator to the second corridor sitting room where Mrs. Jefray, the accomplished Englishwoman whom Mr. Taft chose for housekeeper, and Miss Letterman, her assistant, large and wonderfully efficient-looking, is there too, working over the social mailing list. Charlie Taft, having returned to his uncle's school in Watertown, Miss Letterman takes her work into his room, and Mrs. Taft and her housekeeper have an undisturbed conference over the day's menus and household supplies. Mrs. Taft has the same judicial method as President Taft about which so much has been said; she takes the program offered by Mrs. Jefray under advisement, retires to a mental closet, as it were, and then renders a verdict. Food is bought in large quantities, potatoes by the barrel, butter by the tub, and all these White House accounts are reviewed by Mrs. Taft in this morning's domestic session. The most intricate recipes are also discussed. Mrs. Roosevelt's fad (epidemic was an anthology of nonsense rhymes, from Lewis Carroll to Caroline Wells; Mrs. Taft's is a collection of autographed recipes from many of the best-known domestic science teacher to a mince-meat formula by the wife of the Secretary of State. In fact, this particular brand of home-made science must come into the White House but Winter in a jar direct from Mrs. Knox's hands and was made into pies by Mrs. Taft herself, and, the President approving, the recipe found its way into her remarkable volume on cookery.

Now Mrs. Taft turns to her mail. The White House mail ranges from three hundred to 2,000 letters a day. It is about two hours before Mrs. Taft leaves her secretary to prepare for her morning walk, for although she introduced automobiles as White House equipages, she believes in outdoor exercise and walks well, an accomplishment few American women achieve.

Mrs. Taft is now as slender as a girl and looks remarkably young and rested, and in the blue tailor suit and small hat in which she steps forth from the White House, she appears to great advantage. With her friend, Miss Mabel Boardman, she strolls about the shops, discharging the commissions that the morning mail has called for.

At Luncheon

It is half past one Mrs. Taft has returned to the White House and descends from her sitting room to the family dining room for lunch. The President appears at this meal, bringing with him whatever guest or delegation of men may have had their appointment overlap the luncheon hour. In between Mrs. Taft and her family plans to her private sitting-room and has a really wonderful variety of quiet, appetizing delicacies given at the White House during the Winter are not the conventional Anglo-Saxon chops usually cooked under that head, but belong to the French table as is seldom duplicated in any private home—and this is because Mrs. Taft knows cookery as he other first lady ever did. The afternoon's practice of functions curtailed by business. The good fairs of official entertainments are thought from the executive offices where they have been made up, and she goes over them, adding to the list as she sees fit. She signs the letters prepared by Miss Letterman and together they make appointments and get out the invitations for the few people Mrs. Taft likes to have in her library once or twice a week.

HOW TO CARE FOR HOUSE PLANTS.

The first of a series of articles about the cars of the ordinary house plant in the city homes and apartments will be printed

IN SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

Explained by Anty Drudge.

Little Miss Rompabout—"Just look, mamma, I tore my frock."

Mother—"Good gracious, and that frock just new! Only washed twice!"

Anty Drudge—"Just those two washings made the tear possible. You boiled the frock, as you do all your clothes, and that softened and weakened its fiber. If you had used Fels-Naptha in cold or lukewarm water, the fabric would not be half rotten and ready to give away the first time it caught in anything."

White clothes are made of vegetable fibres, cotton or flax. Boiling affects them the same way it does other vegetable matter, as potatoes or cabbage. It softens them and weakens the fibre. Boiling will soften even hard wood.

By this you can easily see how your clothes will wear out quicker and tear more easily if you boil and hard-rub them. Wool, which is an animal fibre, is softened just as the fibre of meat in boiling. Fels-Naptha will cleanse your clothes in cold or lukewarm water without any boiling or hard rubbing, and there isn't a single thing in it that will harm the goods.

Your clothes will wear twice as long, and they'll be whiter and cleaner all the time. Try a cake of Fels-Naptha and see. But use it the Fels-Naptha way, according to the simple directions on the red and green wrapper. They'll tell you how to wash all kinds of clothes with Fels-Naptha; wash dishes, clean floors and do many other things with it.

THE PRESENT OFFERING

In the six months of now which have passed since Porcupine Central and Porcupine Northern were publicly placed, remarkable developments have been of almost daily occurrence in Porcupine, and valuations have been established which are now being rather than estimations. Scarcely a day, today Falconbridge Northern Mining Co. is being bought at about the same conservative lines as its predecessors. Thereby Porcupine Northern Mines, Ltd., an entirely independent concern, and Southern Mining Co. are now being offered at 60 cents per share. Both companies have the further advantage of being so located in the centre of active operations. These claims have the further advantage of being so scattered that investment development and asset building can proceed together.

The following letter speaks for itself.

Dated No. 42 Broadway, New York City, Sept. 7, 1911.

To Mr. J. Thomas Reinhardt, 38 Broad St., New York City.

Dear Sir: The Porcupine Southern Mining Co. has been organized under the laws of Delaware with a capital stock of 1,000,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each, fully paid and non-assessable.

The Company has acquired all the assets of the Porcupine Southern Mines, Ltd., a corporation formed under the laws of Ontario, Canada, on January 14, 1911, and has under option two (2) claims, all located in the Southern District of Porcupine Mining Division, Ontario, Canada.

These claims are more fully described as follows:

The Company proposes to begin active operations immediately. The Company will today application to list its stock on the New York Curb Market, and on the Standard Stock Exchange, Toronto, Canada.

The distinguishing features of the Porcupine Southern Mining Company are low capitalization, large holdings, favorable location of properties, wide distribution, both properties in proven area, conservative financing.

Subscriptions will be received at the office of the undersigned, 38 Broad St., New York City, for the first Porcupine Company to list its stock on the New York Curb.

Yours very truly,

President Porcupine Southern Mining Co.

THE PREVIOUS OFFERINGS

The results of the previous offerings:

In the letter part 1 of December I offered 250,000 shares of underwritten treasury stock of Porcupine Gem Mining Co. for public subscription at 50 cents per share. Subscriptions were received for 500,000 shares of underwritten treasury stock of Porcupine Northern Mining Co. at 50 cents per share. All of these shares were sold within a few days after the first offering. Porcupine Northern is now listed on the New York Curb, the Toronto Standard Stock Exchange and Boston Curb Exchange. The former Porcupine Gem Mining Co. is now Porcupine Northern Mining Co. Porcupine Gem was the first Porcupine Company to list its stock on the New York Curb.

SEEK TO ENJOIN CURB SEAT SALE

A bill in equity was filed to-day by Frank V. Murphy, who seeks an injunction restraining Oscar Simmons and Benjamin B. Baker, stockholders, from transferring or disposing of Simmons's seat in the Boston Curb Exchange until Murphy is given an opportunity to have a trial on a suit against the two defendants for an alleged debt of $480.08. An order of notice returnable September 13 has been issued.

State Street Notes

The government crop report has continued the echo of a month ago which showed severe losses in nearly all products.

$ $ $

Selling of stocks such as has been in evidence for the last month needs no further explanation than was furnished by the crop report of August and the one of yesterday.

$ $ $

The Rockefellers do not seem to be worried over the fact that St. Paul is not, according to its last report, earning its dividend requirements. It now is the weakest of the railroads in spite of the reduced earnings.

$ $ $

Although the rumor that there was truth to between the Missouri Pacific and the banking interests latest identified with the road was laid to rest by an official denial, the stock continued to decline. Last night it got enough was obliged to submit to a new examination for the worldness. It is now understood that the annual report of the company will not be especially bright and pleasing.

Good Things to Eat

The newest delicacy in the markets of Boston to-day are the new imported figs. They are sold in strawberry boxes and sell for twenty-five to thirty-five cents a box. They are from the irrigated desert lands of the far southwest and are increasing in favor every day.

There are a few cranberries in the market. Those being offered for sale are small and only half ripe, but the demand for them is so strong that the growers are forcing the season. They sell at twenty cents a quart.

Dealers complain that there is very little game coming in to the Boston markets at present. There are quite a few summer residings, grass birds, pees and quail, but the season will not be over for about a month. Some deer is coming in, but the few hotels and players are in the market for it. Moose meat, salted for about seventy cents each.

Fish are quite plentiful and comparatively cheap. They sell at $3.50 to $4.50 a box. Salmon trout are selling for about $2.50 a dozen.

Poultry is grown nearly, is coming into the market. It sells at twenty-five cents a bunch.

A Coast-to-Coast Flight

To-morrow the First of Six Daring Aviators Begins the Race for the $50,000 Hearst Prize

Copyright, 1911, by American Journal Examiner

The start of the greatest contest in the history of aviation begins to-morrow morning, when Robert G. Fowler is scheduled to start from Los Angeles in an attempt to fly across the continent.

The contest is looked upon as the most important struggle which science and daring have undertaken against the elements and the air.

In speaking of the flight the AMERICAN said on Wednesday:

"It has attracted to the test of heroic competition six of the most daring and skilful aeronauts in all the world. With patience and careful study and infinite care each has perfected his plans for the long, magnificent journey over towering Sierras and snow-capped Rockies and rugged Alleghenies; over mighty lakes and majestic rivers and boundless plains, through heat and cold and wind and storm and calm to carve out a new and wonderful record in the world's newest science of achievement."

Robert G. Fowler, in his Wright biplane, leads off to-morrow morning, steering from Los Angeles to New York.

Cal P. Rodgers of Chicago in a Wright biplane, will enter the air from New York to Los Angeles on September 12 or 13.

James J. Ward of Chicago, in a Curtiss biplane, starts from New York for the Pacific Ocean on September 13.

Paul O. Parmelee, with another Wright machine, starts from Los Angeles over the southern route to New York on September 15.

Earle L. Ovington starts from Los Angeles for New York in a Bleriot monoplane on September 18.

Harry N. Atwood, victor in the recent St. Louis to New York flight, starts from San Francisco in his Burgess-Wright biplane on September 19.

Six dauntless epochal racers—four flying east and two flying west—entered for the longest, the most daring and the most eventful race in modern history.

If any one of these, or all of them, in pursuit of the Hearst prize, should make this passage safely, it will advance the science and art of aviation as nothing has ever done before. It will open an unlimited vista of development and opportunity.

The wide Atlantic will offer the next logical pathway for an aerial race, and if this is won the air is man's, his servant and his shining way to unlimited power and pleasure and prosperity.

There is no fear that the world will not have its eye and its mind upon these dauntless pioneers who take the air to link a continent in ethereal bonds.

Mr. Newbauer's Poem on Education

It Reminds Us of Albert Durer's Work—Although It Is Different—And So We Print It

Copyright, 1911, by American Journal Examiner

Editor AMERICAN:

Inclosed please find a little poem which I have written. This is my first attempt in submitting anything for publication, so kindly see if there is any significance in these lines. Respectfully yours, ALEXANDER NEWBAUER.

P. S.—If rejected, kindly return with a few remarks.

Mr. Newbauer's poem is not rejected with a few remarks. You shall read it below. Mr. Newbauer tells his readers in this first poem the most important thing is to give your children an education—and a statement of that kind, in any kind of verse, is worth reading.

Mr. Newbauer's verse reminds us in its simply expressed thought and naive philosophy of the old painters and poets. Here is the poem:

THE TOILER ACROSS THE WAY.

While I sit at my window I see o'er the way
A man at work making wigs all day.
And from what I'll relate you will then judge
That his life is anything but a drudge.

Happy is he at the trade he is plying,
As he soothes his children, who are crying.
For he knows that the money he's earning for them.
Will some day bring them a sparkling gem.

And by a sparkling gem I mean out this—
So I'll be explicit and not go amiss—
An education, which, perhaps, he is lacking,
For he knows this will be their best backing.

Money, he knows, is an abstract thing;
You have it, then I, and for it we're all struggling.
So he says we ought more for knowledge try,
For that is something we hold till we die.

The best of our men who live are they Possessed of a good mind, so does it not pay
To seek eagerly for knowledge and then for gold?
For then are you blessed a hundred fold.

The moral which I wish to convey
Is to give your child a training some way.
For as you sow so will you reap,
And you'll be the one they will then keep.

—ALEXANDER NEWBAUER.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

CAT SLAUGHTERS BIRDS

Editor AMERICAN:

In regard to the cat question I have in mind one much-petted house cat in an American home where I visit frequently. At times I have been obliged to pick my way along the walk to avoid stepping upon the mangled remains of birds that this "dear, cute little pussy" has slaughtered in the shrubbery about the house. Last Spring a pair of robins built their little home on top of a piazza column of the house; four little robins made their appearance in due time, only to be devoured by this prowling cat. Isn't there something inconsistent in this talk of kindness and mercy to dumb animals by people who own cats and who seem to be utterly indifferent to this sort of thing? Let us have fewer cats, but more owners.

INTERESTED.

PRAISES THE DOG

Editor AMERICAN:

I have taken note of the different opinions of your readers in regard to the cat and dog question. Do we stop to realize how faithful a friend a dog is? You may kick and cuff him, but he in return licks your hand. Think also of the many human lives these faithful animals have saved. I believe if we should read the life work of the late George T. Angell, the founder of our S. P. C. A., it would broaden the views of our friends who seem to dislike that his dog and cat are no longer useful.

Nation's Eyes on Maine

Bitter Fight to Dislodge Prohibition Reaches Climax on Monday When Election Is Held—Straw Vote in To-morrow's Sunday AMERICAN Will Indicate the Result and Surprise Many People.

The prohibition vote in Maine next Monday is more than a State or even a New England incident. It is a national event. The eyes of the people, and especially of the women, of the whole country are turned toward this extreme northeast corner of the United States.

This is because prohibition's strongest citadel is attacked.

The problem of handling the liquor traffic has proven one of the most difficult that the people have ever attempted to solve. Maine has put to the test one solution—the prohibition of the traffic—and the test is now on trial.

The prohibition clause is in the constitution of the State. Next Monday they will vote on whether it is to remain there or be taken out.

Those who favor prohibition and have been fighting for it for years are alarmed. They have sent the best anti-saloon speakers in the United States to Maine. For weeks the big stretches of mountain and lake in this picturesque domain have resouded to argument for and against the prohibition amendment.

The climax of the campaign will come Monday when the ballots are being cast. Christian women all over the State will pray ceaselessly from the time the polls are opened until they close. The bells on churches will toll a warning of the gravity of the situation.

The Sunday AMERICAN has been mindful of the widespread interest in this great campaign and to-morrow will not only publish a complete and refreshing story of the battle, but will present the result of a "STRAW BALLOT" taken in REPRESENTATIVE SECTIONS of the State. This ballot, obtained with great care, will indicate the result of Monday's vote.

Judging from the returns obtained so far, the people of the country may expect a great surprise when the ballots are counted.

In many ways this election in Maine is the most interesting that was ever held in this section of the country, and to-morrow's Sunday AMERICAN will have the most complete and graphic ante-election story printed about it. Ask your newsdealer to-day to deliver you a paper or save you one.

Capital Punishment

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

UNTIL the world grows wise enough to know
That murder does not murder justify,
Nor crime give moral right to crime, the race
Must stagger on in darkness and despair.

The guillotine, the scaffold, and the chair,
All violate the purposes of God
In giving life; and in a three-fold crime
Seek vainly for a punishment for sin.

First, the dull soul that erred for lack of light
Is flung to deeper darkness, where it gropes
(All unprepared to journey on and up)
Back to the borders of the earth; and clings,
Leech-like, to other weak and victim lives
And drags them farther downward. Next, the man
Chosen by morial power to separate
Immortal souls from tenements of clay,
Is made a creature hated by his kind;
Shunned by the very framers of the law
And barred from friendship, self-respect and pride;
And last, the people, frenzied or depressed,
By sight, or sound, or knowledge of the deed,
Are wronged and injured by the law's effect
Crime follows executions; thought breeds thought;
And as from thistledown new thistles spring,
So violent actions to disorders lead.
That vengeful God, of old Hebraic lore,
Has blocked the progress of the world too long.
When Science seeks the cause, and Love the cure,
Then crime will vanish from the human race

Brother Ed

By MILES OVERHOLT

ONE sultry day my brother Ed went a-swimming in the lake. He wasn't swimming very long till he began to shake, because the water which was wet was also very cold—as ice plant reared its lofty head near where the wavelets rolled.

No one saw Edward getting wet; none saw him with his chill, although some sixty seven men were sitting on the hill that overlooks the watery lake, and when Ed waved his hand they thought it was a timid wave to those upon the land.

Well, Edward sank; his breath was gone, his senses, too, had fled—you see, poor Ed is deaf and dumb; he has a wooden head. I say, he sank beneath the waves; the water filled his eyes which filled his soul with much disgust which filled him with surprise.

Just then a most peculiar thing happened beneath the lake. Ed felt a ringing in his head; his ears began to ache as if the stopper of a bell was being shoved with glee. Thought Edward in a watery tone: "At last I hear, I see." What Edward meant was that he heard, not that he saw a hearing you see poor Ed has little sense, so kindly do not jeer.

"I hear a bell," said Edward, then, "I hear it with my head." It's funny how my brother talks, but please don't pity Ed. The hearing tickled Edward so to think that after all the little birds would sing for him and he could hear them call, so with a prayer upon his thumbs he made an upward dash and somebonbed to the right and gave the waves a smash; then with a mighty asterisk upon his good right hand he swam with ninety kinds of strokes and headed toward the land.

At last he reached it dripping wet and also icy-cold, but then he didn't care for that—at least that's what he told—for he was waiting for a sound that he might try his ear. Just then a hunter shot a pair of Farmer Brown's near deer. The noise was deafening and loud but Edward heard it, too. And then old Farmer Brown came out before the second shot. The man had fled, so Farmer Brown called Edward many names in shrill and angry language, too; plain words without chipping them
